Tropical Rain Squalls Hinder Amelia Search

Planes Soaring Over Pacific Fails To Locate Trace Of Lost Fliers

AIRCRAFT CARRIER IS NEARING SCENE

Army Of Navy Planes Will Be Released To Join In Search By Monday

(International News Service)

HONOLULU, July 9.—Heavy tropical rain squalls today hindered search for Amelia Earhart and her globe-girdling companion, Captain Fred Noonan, lost somewhere in the south Pacific since last Friday.

The U. S. S. Colorado reported that its three catapult planes would take off again at daylight to search Carondelet reef and the northeast portion of the Phoenix Island group, 280 miles south of tiny Howland Island—the mid-Pacific sand speck which Miss Earhart and Noonan failed to reach on their perilous 2,570 mile flight from Lae, New Guinea.

Have Covered 66,000 Square Miles

A terse message from Capt. Friedell, commander of the Colorado, advised Rear Admiral O. G. Murfin, commandant of the fourteenth naval district here, that the three planes had already covered an area of 66,000 square miles.

Capt. Friedell then stated that the search would continue—that Carondelet reef and the northeast portion of the Phoenix Islands would be the next targets in the greatest search in aviation history.

Efforts of the three planes to find Tiny Winslow reef, situation somewhere between Howland Island and the Phoenix group, were unavailing.

The position of Winslow reef was charted as "doubtful." It is so small that it only juts from the water a few feet and could easily be covered from the eyes of the scout aviators by breaking waves.

Near Completion Of Group Search

The Colorado's search of the Phoenix group probably will be completed tomorrow afternoon.

This was the original plan of Capt. Friedell—to search the tiny group of islands until Saturday, and then swing the search back to the northern waters of the area—the vast sweep of ocean north of Howland.

RIVER BEACH POOLS CLOSED AT PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Wistful, forlorn faces gazed at the "Ol' Swimmin' Holes" in Pittsburgh's three rivers, closed today because of typhoid germs.

The 14 river beach swimming pools were closed for an indefinite period on the order of Mayor Cornelius D. Scully after a report from th health department that since July 1, tests have shown the dreaded germs are rapidly increasing.

Hot weather and scarcity of rainfall which has reduced the river's flow were given as the cause for the high germ content in the waters.

Mains Held For Court In Death Of I. H. Pollard

Witnesses Tell Of Attack On Victim Which Resulted In His Death

INQUEST AND HEARING JOINT

Elmer Mains, charged with an attack on Isaac H. Pollard on June 30, near Fee's Tavern on West Washington street, which resulted in the death of Mr. Pollard in the Jameson Memorial hospital on the morning of July 3, was held for the September term of court without bail, on a charge of voluntary manslaughter by Alderman Wallace J. Ewing, following a joint coroner's inquest and hearing before the alderman and Coroner Orville Potter in Alderman Ewing's court room last evening.

A half dozen witnesses to the incidents surrounding the attack on Pollard all testified that Mains was the aggressor and that Pollard attempted to avoid trouble with Mains. Mains, it was said, was with two other men, standing in front of Fee's tavern on West Washington street, and had made the remark to them that he was "going to have some fun with this man," and that he stopped Pollard when he came abreast of the group. When Pollard attempted to get away from him, he followed him and struck him twice, knocking him against a building and that Pollard fell and struck his head on the sidewalk.

The witnesses stated that Pollard had a shopping bag containing groceries and had tried to use this as a shield to protect himself from Main's blows.

Tells Of Blow

The verdict of the coroner's jury that "Pollard had come to his death in the Jameson Memorial hospital on July 3, 1937, as a result of injuries received at the hands of Main. The jury recommends that Mains be held for the action of the grand jury."

PEIPING, July 9.—Peace—effective for the time being at least, and "final" if all goes well—was restored between embattled Chinese and Japanese troops today.

An agreement was reached for withdrawal of both Chinese and Japanese forces from the region around Lukuchiao, scene of a series of bloody battles which took a toll of more than 200 casualties after Chinese troops clashed with Japanese conducting mock war maneuvers.

Troops Withdrawing

By 8:30 a. m., troops of both sides were withdrawing from the battle area under a heavy rain and officials here declared a "final peace" had been rstored.

The first agreement for actual withdrawal of troops was reached at 4 a. m. after a series of conferences, truces, broken truces, renewed battles and wily oriental bargainings.

The warfare between the troops did not cease immediately, however, fighting near Peiping was suddenly, and briefly, resumed at dawn be-

Opposition To Court Proposal Opens Attack

Compromise Court Change Measure Is Strongly Attacked In Senate

WHEELER LEADS ASSAULT ON BILL

Opponents Of Measure Force Admissions From Administration Leaders

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The opposition to President Roosevelt's supreme court bill took the offensive in the senate today to denounce the bill as an effort to pack the tribunal for the purpose of controlling its decisions.

This was the opposition keynote to be emphasized by Senators Wheeler (D) of Montana, an' O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming, in opening the battle against the measure that has been substituted for the president's original bill. The substitute would authorize the appointment of one new supreme court justice each year for every justice remaining on the bench after the age of 75 years.

Break With President

Wheeler and O'Mahoney have broken definitely with the president on this issue, although they have served as his congressional leaders on many other measures. Both campaigned for him in 1932 and played leading roles in securing his first Democratic nomination for the presidency.

"We are still the president's friends," said Wheeler, just before entering the chamber. "If we were his enemies, we would vote for this bill because its enactment will destroy him and his administration."

The opposition leaders followed an array of administration orators, who held the senate floor for three days—though subjected to a withering cross-fire of questions. Administration spokesmen emphasized two points, one that opposition to the bill constituted an attack on the president, the other, that the supreme court has hampered New Deal reforms by holding its laws unconstitutional.

Opposition Gains

The opposition gained one important point by its barrage of questions. It was an admission by Senator Logan (D) of Kentucky, that

Nation Sizzles In Torrid Heat

(International News Service)

Heat—the kind that tightens the throat and presses against you like sodden wool—stretched humid fingers across most of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic again today.

Its three-day grip, unbroken except in an occasional spot on the map, had choken out at least 63 lives, wrung the green from the fields and caused untold suffering in the breathless cities.

Many Offer Blood To Aid Young Man

Thirty-Five Persons Offer Blood To Save Life Of David N. Garvin

When requests for blood donors were asked at the Jameson Memorial hospital yesterday to save the life of David N. Garvin, of Boyles avenue, 35 persons responded.

Tests are being made of their blood today to determine whether any will fit the case as the blood needed is Type 4, which is one of the rarer types.

Many of the donors were members of the American Legion, Sheriff Edward F. Pritchard being chairman of the committee in charge of this for the Perry S. Gaston Post.

It is hoped that among those examined, there will be one found whose blood will be of the same type as that needed.

Volunteers are still being asked for, and should notify the hospital.

Oh! It's The Weather!

Among the mail arriving in the editorial department today was a beautifully illustrated card from Florida announcing that the alligator state was an ideal place to spend the summer and particularly Miami. The message on the card informs us that the hot test day last summer was only 90.2 and that happened only once.

Up to that time we hadn't thought much of the heat here in New Castle. Like ants at a picnic lunch, ravels on the collars the laundry sent back; or the debates in the United States Senate, we had sort of taken the hot weather as a matter of course.

But that card brought the matter to our attention in a hot way. Now that we think of it, the weather is hot. Or had you noticed it?

For the past three days we've been lashed in the face by the tail of that hot wave that was moving from the west. The casualties among shirts and collars are terrific, the sidewalks radiate heat like your third floor apartment didn't

France Threatens To Abolish Neutrality On Spanish Border

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 9.—France today threatened formally to abolish neutrality on her Spanish border unless full and effective international control of the Portugues frontier is re-established immediately to halt the steady flow of men and munitions to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's rebel forces.

In a vigorous statement to a plenary session of the international non-intervention committee, Charles Corbin, the French ambassador, demanded this step be taken "without delay".

If it is not, he said, France will withdraw recognition of the foreign observers now posted on the French side of the Pyrenees to prevent material aid for Spain's loyalists from crossing the frontier.

The recent Italo-German compromise neutrality plan, embracing the granting of belligerent rights to the warring factions in Spain, is unacceptable to France, Corbin, partly because it would destroy the equilibrium of land and sea control and partly because it is equitable neither to Spain nor the powers.

"Far from strengthening control," he said, "the Italo-German plan would weaken and ruin it."

Some form of naval control must be continued.

"If it cannot be maintained outside the harbors of disembarkation," he said, "then it must be done inside."

Speeders Will Be Arrested

Police Get Petition From North Hill Asking For Action

DOUBLE PARKERS TO GET ATTENTION

Due to speeding in various sections of the city and the presentation of a petition from North Hill residents asking that speeding be curbed immediately, Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Police Chief Ralph Criswell today ordered police to arrest all speeders.

"Anyone arrested for speeding should bring $10 with them when they appear at the police station. No speeder will be excused," Mayor McGrath declared.

He said that he is vexed with that portion of the auto-driving public which apparently has no regard for the lives of others or themselves and believes fines will stop speeding.

The mayor also said that police will enforce the ordinance relative to double parking.

State In Grip Of Heat Wave

Death Toll Mounts As Torrid Weather Continues For Third Day

DROWNINGS ARE QUITE NUMEROUS

(International News Service)

Blazing through cloudless skies, a burnished sun sent Pennsylvania thermometers boiling into the nineties for a third day today as the death toll from the oppressive heat rose to eight in the state.

Five of the deaths were directly or indirectly attributable to the heat while the other three were drownings.

Some relief was promised today, the weatherman predicting showers for the eastern section, scattered showers in the central portions and a lessening of the humidity in the western region.

Near Records.

In Pittsburgh, the thermometer was expected to pass yesterday's 94 degrees, but remain far from last year's record of 101. Harrisburg reported a high of 96, equalling the 1890 record. Yesterday's high of 94 at Philadelphia equalled the preceding day, the hottest of the year. Unofficial readings of as much as 118 were reported in the Quaker City.

Scores of prostrations were reported throughout the state. Swimming pools and beaches were crowded with throngs seeking relief. Many families slept on roofs and in the parks.

William D. Steel, 78, died of sunstroke while mowing hay with a team of horses at Beaver township near Beaver.

A heart attack superinduced by the heat killed Vaughn Fry, 35, a doughmaker, at Altoona, as he was enroute to work.

One Man Dead, Second In Hospital, After Beer Tavern Outbreak

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—One man was dead and another lay seriously wounded today, shot down in a roadside beer tavern and gas station at Bavington, three miles from Burgettstown, Washington county, by an unidentified assailant after the innkeeper refused to sell him more drinks.

James Russell, 35, dog breeder and trainer, was almost instantly killed when two slugs tore through his neck, a third penetrated his back and fourth entered his body between his ribs. A companion, Nicholas Yaksic, 52, was sent to the hospital with a bullet wound in the left thigh and a gash over his left eye.

A third man, Adam J. Hirsh, escaped uninjured.

The unidentified gunman opened fire with a .32 automatic when James Ernest Thompson, owner of the tavern, told him "he had enough," police said.

Demands Probe Of Tax Returns By Morgenthau

Congressman Fish Also Includes Those Of Some Of Roosevelt Family

CLAIMS LOOPHOLES USED IN EVASIONS

Asks Investigation Of Returns Of Democratic Leaders And Others

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—In a warm session of the congressional tax committee today, Rep. Hamilton Fish (R) of New York, demanded investigation of the income tax returns of members of the Roosevelt family, of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and his father, and other administration figures and contributors to the Democratic campaign fund.

Fish did not call for an inquiry into the returns of the president himself though he did accuse the chief executive of using tax loopholes he now condemns.

Morgenthau, sitting among the spectators as Fish testified, informed the committee he would furnish it with his own returns, his wife's and those of his father, if the committee so desired.

Fish was heard for 35 minutes without interruptions and then was bombarded with questions. Rep. Vinson (D) of Kentucky, asserting repeatedly that all Fish's testimony was "hearsay" and unsupported by factual proof.

"Used Legal Loopholes"

Fish asserted that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt used "a legal tax loophole" by assigning her remuneration for broadcasts to charity.

He said that Henry Morgenthau, Sr., father of secretary of the treasury Morgenthau, had established family trusts and a personal holding company.

He asked investigation of the tax returns of James Roosevelt and Anna Boettiger, son and daughter of the president; John L. Lewis, labor chief; Harry L. Hopkins, WPA director; and Ben Smith, New York financier, and heavy contri-

PALESTINE PLAN OPPOSED

Partition Move Brings Protest

Ambassador Bingham Presents Attitude Of American-Jewish Residents

CONVEYS MESSAGE TO SECRETARY EDEN

(Copyright, 1937.)

LONDON, July 9.—American-Jewish perturbation regarding Britain's proposed partitioning of Palestine into three sections, and desire to obtain elucidation of British intentions in carrying out the Palestine commission's recommendations were conveyed to British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today by United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham.

Britain proposes to divide Palestine into three parts—one for Jews, one for the Arabs and one remainng under British mandate. Consent of the League of Nations and the United States—under a treaty with Palestin—are necessary for this to be accomplished. The plan aroused intense opposition of both Jews and Arabs in the Holy Land.

Plan Is Opposed.

Acting on instructions from Washington, Bingham informed Eden that Jews are bringing pressure upon Washington to oppose the plan, International News Service was informed.

Eden replied with assurances that the interests of Zionists in Palestine would be protected adequately.

In this connection, International News Service learned that the British feel the Jews in the Holy Land are actually getting the best of the bargain, since they are being given fertile land near the sea, while the Arabs are being given the mountainous regions.

Eden handed Bingham a copy of a white paper on the question and promised to keep him minutely informed of all developments.

last winter, and if eggs weren't so high in price we had thought some of trying to fry an egg on the sidewalk of Washington street.

Any place that has more than three inches of running water is now a bathing pool, and the genuine honest to Pete bathing pools are so full of people that one has to hunt for the water.

The ice cream men have cramps in the arm from ringing up the cash register and the ice men are humped over from delivering that fifty pounds you ordered.

Those who have camps out along the creeks are headed for them as early in the afternoon as they can sneak away while the city dwellers who haven't, are finding the porch swing is a comfortable bed of an evening.

The low buzz of electric fans can be heard throughout the city like the drone of a thousand flocks of bees or do bees come in flocks?

Iced tea has become the favorite beverage at meal times, although the after dinner beverages are slightly different in color, taste and effect.

Fat men struggle along the streets with a wan look in their eyes and perspiration cascading down their bevy of chins. Women are wearing as little as possible and still escape the police and most of the males envy them for their courage and good sense.

It's July weather mates! The old fashioned triple distilled hot weather with the mercury saying howdy to 95 so often that it begins to appear that the thermometer is broken. But it isn't, the mercury went near 98 and its still in a rising market. When it gets to 105 we are going to sell.

There wasn't a great deal of reason for this article in the first place. But that card from Miami, Florida was responsible, that and the insatiable appetite of a city editor who insists upon more copy as the temperature goes higher.

And so here it is. Its hot! So hot that steam is exuding from every pore of this typewriter and any minute now it may explode. But duty calls for an article on the hot weather and the traditions of the profession demand that the call be answered.

And so, mopping off what would pass for a fevered brow in any hospital, and tucking the corner of a moisty mess that was once a collar in towards our wish bone we close this article by reminding you that it is plenty hot.

DEMANDS PROBE OF TAX RETURNS BY MORGENTHAU

butor to the Democratic campaign fund.

Fish said that he was informed that Morgenthau and his wife held stock which they exchanged back and forth to lessen tax payments.

Morgenthau Invites Probe

As Fish concluded, Morgenthau stepped to the witness stand.

"I invite the committee to examine the returns of myself, my wife and my father," he said.

Plainly irritated by the injection of his name into the inquiry, Morgenthau spoke in determined tones as he invited investigation.

Fish, refusing to reveal the source of his information except in one instance, said he had been told that James Roosevelt had established a foreign corporation in the Bahama Islands.

He said he was told that Henry Morgenthau, Sr., had established a foreign corporation to reduce taxes.

Smear Republicans

During his testimony, Fish charged the treasury with "smearing" Republican campaign contributors and passing over Democrats.

Just before the committee adjourned until Tuesday, Rep. Treadway (R) of Massachusetts, asked whether the committee would accept Morganthau's proffer of tax returns.

"I am sure there will be no objection by any member of committee, but we should consider that in executive session," said Chairman Doughton (D) of North Carolina.

Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi, told reporters after the hearing:

"If Rep. Fish believes that the case presented by him of Mrs. Roosevelt who took $1 per radio lecture so that a charitable institution might get $3,000 per lecture, is comparable to the nefarious cases hereto fore presented to the committee then Mr. Fish has had a brainstorm."

Charge Stocks Traded

Washington, July 9—A charge that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and his wife "traded" stocks between themselves so as to lessen their income tax liability was made today before the joint congressional tax committee by Rep. Hamilton Fish, (D) New York.

The "trading" stock, he said, was Fuller Mat. He said:

"I have been informed that in at least one instance in this trading back and forth Morgenthau sold the stock to his wife for 10 cents a share and later bought it back at $60 a share," Fish charged.

Fish assailed the statement of President Roosevelt in his message to congress that the loopholes he sought to close are of recent date.

Practiced For Years

"Every one knows that they have been used for years and he makes it appear that congress is at fault" said Fish.

He repeated his request for examination of tax returns of James Roosevelt and Anna Boettiger, son and daughter of the president.

He had previously said he would ask for examination of the return of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president.

"But I know nothing about Elliott Roosevelt and it is not important," said Fish, passing over his name.

The witness also demanded that the committee call for the tax returns of Harry L. Hopkins WPA administrator, and John L. Lewis, CIO leader.

"I think this committee should find out what has become of money from sale of a book, written by Hopkins, to WPA workers" Fish declared.

"I am not sure that it is a proper thing for a high officials of government to sell a book he has written for profit to WPA workers. I am not sure this committee is the proper one to conduct the investigation but surely congress should."

Regarding Lewis, Fish pointed to the United Mine workers contribution to the 1936 Democratic campaign fund and said:

"I don't know what the law is. Corporations cannot contribute. The question is should unions be permitted to contribute.

Fish also called for the tax return of Ben Smith who was described as a contributor to the Democratic campaign fund.

He demanded investigation of the tax returns either of the Democratic National Committee or the corporation selling books, autographed by the president to raise campaign funds.

"If they are sold for profit then it is a matter for the committee to find out whether tax has been paid" said Fish.

He added that, in any event, the corrupt practices act has been violated.

MAINS HELD FOR COURT IN DEATH OF I. H. POLLARD

truck of his employer in front of 106 West Washington street, about 2:40 p. m. on June 30, when he noticed four men across the street. Three of them seemed to be trying to detain Mr. Pollard, who walked out around the group, apparently trying to get away from them. One of the men ran after Pollard and struck him, knocking him to the street. He said that Pollard was walking west on the south side of Washington St., and the men were standing in front of Fee's tavern.

Mains was the man who struck Pollard, the witness stated. He said that he had gotten out of the truck and was walking across he street toward where the attack took place and that he assisted another man to pick Mr. Pollard up and place him in the truck, after which he was taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital. He was unconscious when picked up, but came to when they reached the hospital, and when they got him up to the operating room, he said, "Oh, my" several times and asked for a drink of water.

He said that Mains had struck Pollard in the face and that Pollard had a shopping bag containing some articles in his hand and held it up in front of his face. He was asked by Attorney Logan of the defense, whether he had attempted to strike Mains with the shopping bag, and said that he had not.

Tried To Avoid Mains

He said that one fellow in the crowd tried to grab Mains and keep him from striking Pollard.

Mrs. Fannie Nolan, of 11½ South Jefferson street, said she was walking east on West Washington street with Mrs. Edrie Fee, and that they passed three men standing on the sidewalk. She said that Mains made the remark, "I'm going to have some fun with the first man that comes along," and that they had stopped at the corner of Beaver street to see what would happen. Mr. Pollard was approaching at the time.

She saw Mains stop Mr. Pollard and engage him in a conversation. She said that Mr. Pollard tried to avoid him, and seemed to be smiling. She heard Mains say "You can't call me a ——and get away with it." Just then he struck Pollard, who held a shopping bag in front of his face in an attempt to ward off the blow. She said that Mains struck Pollard twice and that he fell at the second blow.

Mrs. Doris Kulkin, of 428 Boyles avenue, who with her husband operates the City Market, said she was walking back to the store at 101 West Washington street on her way from lunch, when she saw Mains attack Pollard. She said that Pollard had held the shopping bag up in front of his face and had cried out. "Let me alone." She said that Mains slapped Pollard first and then struck him with his fist, knocking him against the front of the building next to Fee's tavern. She said that she screamed and that her driver and another man came over and she ordered them to take the injured man to the hospital in her truck.

Heard Conversation

Rudy Hnatt, of 412 West Grant street, was standing at Norris Way, waiting for someone, when Mr. Pollard came up to the group standing in front of Fee's Tavern. They talked and he said he heard Mr. Pollard say, "You leave me alone, I don't want to talk to you now." He said that Mains gave Pollard a push towards the building and then ran after him and struck him in the face, knocking him down.

He said that he knew Mr. Pollard and also knew Mains by sight. He said that Pollard was a small man, weighing but 115 pounds and that he was around 65 years of age. He said that Mains was younger and while about the same height, was a heavier man.

Edward Parkinson, of 118 Locust street, was walking east towards Beaver street, and was only a few feet away from the group. He said he heard Pollard say, "Don't let him hit me."

Dr. E. U. Synder, told of attending Mr. Pollard in the Jameson Memorial hospital, being summoned there shortly after three o'clock. He said Mr. Pollard was in a comatose condition and that his condition became steadily worse until death ensued on July 3, at 7:05 a. m. Death resulted from a hemorrhage, which came from an injury to the brain on the right side of the head, above and in front of the ear. The blood vessels in this area had been ruptured, he stated, and there was a bruising of the brain tissue. He stated that the history of Mr. Pollard's case was that he had been struck and the injuries sustained would bear this out.

Mrs. Edrie Fee, of 36½ West Washington street, who was with Mrs. Nolan, gave testimony similar to that previously related. She said that Mains had said "I'm going to have some fun with his fellow.' During their conversation she heard the word money mentioned, but did not get the exact conversation.

After Mains had struck Pollard and the latter had been taken away, she said Mr. Nader came over and tried to prevent Mains from leaving. She said Mr. Nader took his coat off and "they went to the ground."

Officer William Tyrell told of being summoned to West Washington street on the afternoon of June 30, by the report of some trouble there. They were told that Mains had struck a man and Mains was pointed out to them as he apparently came out of Fee's tavern and that he was placed under arrest by himself and John F. Haven. He said that Mains was docketed at the police station at 2:55 p. m. He said that Mains told them that Mr. Pollard had struck him and had called him a vile name and said that he, Pollard, was going to kill him.

Being free of vanity saves you a lot of time. If the other fellow wishes to argue, you can admit he's right and be rid of him.

This is still a free country. Nowhere else does the government try not to interfere with a civil war.

Deaths of the Day

Rev. John M. Waite.

Rev. John M. Waite, a retired Presbyterian minister, passed away at his residence, 234 East Neshannock avenue, New Wilmington, this morning at 10 o'clock, ending a long honorable life in service of the Lord.

Rev. Waite, 74 years of age, had been in poor health for the past 12 years. He leaves his wife, Caroline Hindman Waite, whom he married in 1897; three sons, James of Warren, Pa., Rev. John M. Waite, Jr., of Williamsfield, O., and Howard of Swissvale, and three daughters, Mary Barbara and Caroline at home.

The minister had resided in New Wilmington for the past five years. During his preaching years he won many steadfast friends; his pastorates included the Bell Memorial church at Ellwood City and Presbyterian churches at Jackson Center and in Butler county. He was born in 1863 at Beachwood, near Reynoldsville, Jefferson county.

The time of the funeral will be announced in Saturday's News.

Miss Jannette Shafer

Miss Jannette Shafer, aged 82 years, died Thursday afternoon at New Wilmington where she had been a resident for the past 69 years. She had been in a critical condition ever since suffering a stroke a number of weeks ago in a New Castle store. She underwent treatment at the Jameson Memorial hospital and then was removed to her home.

Miss Shafer was born in Allegheny county on May 30, 1855, daughter of Alexander D. and Maria D. Shafer. Ever since she was a young girl she lived in New Wilmington where she was a member of the United Presbyterian church.

No members of her own family survive, but she leaves several nieces and nephews, among them Attorney J. Glenn Berry of New Castle.

Services will be conducted at the home this evening at 8 o'clock and at Deer Creek cemetery in Allegheny county Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The officiating ministers will be Dr. J. Ralph Neale. Dr. S. A. Kirkbride and Dr. R. F. Galbreath of New Wilmington, and Dr. Hughes of Deer Creek.

report of Capt. Friedell, the naval headquarters said he made no mention of the weather.

However, the weather bureau here declared the brief squalls of yesterday, which did not materially hinder the three planes, were increasing intensity today.

The aircraft carrier Lexington, with 62 planes aboard and 300 crack navy aviators, was expected to steam southward from Lahaina roads late today.

The big aircraft carrier which sped from San Pedro with three destroyers was still being refueled.

Army Of Planes To Be Released

When the Lexington reaches the scene, sometime Monday or late Sunday night, its small army of planes will scour an area of 200,000 square miles, including the Phoenix Islands.

Fanwise the Lexington's plane will sweep over the south Pacific in several hours the 62 planes will be able to cover more than 50,000 square miles.

If the Lexington's planes do not find any trace of the lost round-the-world fliers, Admiral Murfin will feel that the United States navy can do no more. He previously declared that the absolute deadline in the search would be the report after the Lexington's planes have made their search.

The Lexington will travel 600 miles a day on the southward journey from Lahaina roads to the Howland search area. This rate of travel will not be at forced draft because the aircraft carrier has instrutions to conserve its fuel for any possible emergency.

The coast guard cutter Itasca continued to search the area southwest of Howland. The mine sweeper Swan was concentrating its efforts east of the island. The Colorado was cruising south, midway between Howland and the Phoenix group.

Arrival of the Lexington at the scene of search Monday will enable the three aviators aboard the Colorado to obtain much needed rest.

According to the navy roster here, the Colorado, which like the other navy vessels received surprise orders to join the search, was on an R O T C training cruise with naval cadets aboard when the orders were dispatched several days ago hunt for the missing plane.

The three aviation officers have been making two flights daily over the treacherous south sea waters. They have cruised approximately 200 miles from the Colorado in an effort to locate the missing plane.

The last bulwark of the old order has crumbled. The Saturday Evening Post is printing stories that don't turn out right.

STATE IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE

was drowned while seeking relief from the torrid weather in the Brier Hill reservoir near Uniontown.

An aged man and a boy were victims of the torrid wave in the central Pennsylvania area.

Peter Reidell, 75, Progress, collapsed on the street at Harrisburg and died shortly afterwards in a hospital. A heart attack, superinduced by the heat, was blamed.

Ten-year-old William Allison of Lock Haven, seeking relief in Bald Eagle creek, near his home, drowned when he stepped into a 30-foot hole. His body was recovered.

A Reading company train broke up a merry swimming party near Tamaqua when one member of a party of boys was struck and killed while walking along the company's tracks. He was Daniel Rinkenbeg, 15, Tamaqua. The other boys escaped injury.

Prostrations numbered more than a score, with several treated in hospitals.

The year's first heat wave claimed two lives and sent more than a score of other heat victims to hospitals for treatment in the Philadelphia metropolitan area on Thursday, when the mercury for the second consecutive day reached 94 on the weather bureau's thermometer.

In Philadelphia, street thermometers soared to 100 and above, while sun-baked suburban towns reported unofficial recordings as high as 118 degrees. The dead were John Struck, 52, a Philadelphia house painter, and John Short, 52, a Negro of West Chester.

The heat wave continued undiminished in southeastern Pennsylvania today and no relief was in sight, although the weather bureau reported local thundershowers "which may or may not occur" might bring a slight drop in temperatures.

RESTORE PEACE AFTER OUTBREAK AROUND PEIPING

fore the withdrawal agreement could be carried out. Peiping residents could hear heavy gunfire in the Wang Ping area.

Later, Chinese officials suavely explained this last clash had been due to a "misunderstanding."

The final flare-up was short-lived, however, ending when competent officials arrived on the scene to enforce previous "cease firing" orders.

Japanese detachments then fell back from the left bank of the Yungting river and Chinese from the right bank. Militiamen took possession of garrison towns evacuated by the Chinese troops yesterday.

A "HEALTHY" SPRAY

HONOLULU, T. H.—The biggest laugh, although a trifle expensive to the navy, during the 1937 fleet maneuvers, was furnished aboard a battleship by a high ranking officer and a rookie seaman.

A high wind was blowing and a heavy sea running. The new seaman went forward and reported: "A lot of green water is coming over the quarterdeck, sir."

"Just a little spray," snapped the officer.

A short time later the seaman went forward again, with this report: "The spray has washed two motorboats overboard, sir."

COLLEGE GRADS IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

AMHERST, Mass.—"Business concerns are looking for college trained men, according to Emery E. Grayson, director of the placement service of Massachusetts State College who declared, "It's a good year for college graduates seeking jobs."

"Young men are realizing," he said, "that they must show more than a college diploma to a prospective employer." He explained that, "Thanks to the depression, much of the "cockiness" has been knocked out of the graduates seeking jobs."

MARTHA SHRINE, NO. 14 OFFICERS ENTERTAINED

Miss Ella Bailey, worthy high priestess of Martha Shrine, No. 14, was a pleasing hostess Thursday evening at her home on Beckford street, entertaining as guests, her corps of officers at a lovely party.

The occasion was delightfully informal, and the early hours were devoted to bingo contests, with the following winning prizes: Mrs. Ruth Titus, Mrs. Carrie Klingensmith, Mrs. Jennie Martin, Mrs. Harriet Hammond, Mrs. Lula Campbell, Mrs. Bertha Beahm and Mrs. Gladys Coles.

A dainty lunch was a later pleasure, the hostess being aided by her mother, Mrs. Prudence Bailey and sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard H. Bailey, the latter a special guest of the occasion. Appointments were developed in tones of yellow and white. An abundance of flowers of the season decorated the rooms throughout.

Plans were made for a picnic outing at Cascade Park, on Thursday, July 15, at 6 o'clock. The committee in charge, is composed of: Mrs. Minnie Shaffer, Mrs. Ethel Kirshner, Mrs. Estella Weddell, Mrs. Carrie Klingensmith, Mrs. Elizabeth Wignall, Mrs. Amelia Wolfe, Mrs. Ann Harris, Mrs. Edna Crain, Mrs. Etta Clark and Mrs. Ina Norris.

Announcement is made today of the engagement of Miss Anna Mae Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Jackson, 927 Morton street, to William Shuliff, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shuliff, Sr, of Croton avenue.

The engagement will terminate in an early fall wedding.

CASTLETON DINNER CLIMAXES SEASON

To climax an enjoyable season of club sessions, members of the 1923 S. L. club gathered Thursday evening at the Castleton hotel for dinner at 7 o'clock.

At tables prettily arranged with cut flowers, places were laid for 12 guests who spent evening hours afterwards at cards. Instead of having high score awards, favors were given to each club member.

In charge of arrangements last night were Mrs. Joseph Malloy and Mrs. Jack Hannon, assisted by others.

As long as the hot weather continues, the club will have picnics in July and August, planning to resume meetings again some time in September.

MRS. PATTERSON TO LEAVE CITY TONIGHT

Mary Virginia Patterson, of 22 West Falls street, leaves tonight to spend her summer vacation with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Munroe, of Dayton, O.

Mrs. Patterson expects to locate permanently in Dayton and will continue her musical activities in that city.

AGED VISITOR COMES ALONE FROM CUBA

Mrs. Mary Broschart, of Lugarano, Cuba, is visiting at the home of her son, L. W. Broschart, 908 West Washington street.

As Mr. Broschart has not seen his mother for the past 29 years, the reunion is being thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Broschart, who is 78 years of age, made the trip from Havana to New York alone.

She has seen a great improvement in the country since she left this vicinity for at that time there were no improved roads, or in fact, any of the modern improvements. She marvels at the use of electricity here as in Cuba it is only turned on from 6 o'clock in the evening until 11 o'clock, five hours each day.

Another son, Fred Broschart, of Boston avenue, had not seen his mother in 12 years. He lived in Cuba up to that time.

Mrs. Broschart also has a son and daughter in Townsend, Mass., with whom she has been visiting since her arrival in New York, June 12. A daughter, Mrs. Peter Guzman, resides in Cuba, where her mother has made her home for the past several years.

Sometime in September Mrs. Broschart will sail from New York to spend the winter in Cuba.

Honoring the birthday anniversary of Mrs. John A. Earl, a group of friends gathered in her West Washington street home Thursday evening for a social time.

The guests were invited upon the invitation of Mrs. William Logan and Mrs. Johnrae Earl, who served at joint hostesses. They were aided by Miss Anna Rae.

Playing of 500 was the diversion of the evening, with prizes being awarded to the high score winners. At a later hour refreshments were served.

Out-of-town guest included Mrs. Edward Fox of Cleveland, O.

MISS BETTY LOUER HONORED AT PARTY

Miss Betty Louer, bride-elect, was guest of honor Thursday evening, at the home of Miss Betty Cole, Euclid avenue, who entertained a group of her chums at a surprise kitchen shower.

Games of many varieties claimed attention, and the prize of the evening fell to Harriet Phipps. Music and other diversion also filled in the leisure hours. Lunch was served afterwards, by the hostess at small tables prettily appointed in keeping with the theme of the occasion.

Just preceding, the honoree was presented with an array of practical and beautiful kitchen utensils, for use in her future home.

Miss Louer will become the bride of Charles Burton of Cumberland, Md., on August 7. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Louer of Delaware avenue, and who has already been honored at a series of lovely parties.

ST. VITUS CHURCH SCENE OF WEDDING

A pretty wedding ceremony of July 7 was that which took place in St. Vitus church when Miss Josephine Padula, daughter of Patsy Padula of 731 Pearl street, became the bride of Dominick Russo, son of Alfonso Russo, 212 Division street, the vows being exchanged at 9:30 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives of the young couple.

The bride, given in marriage by her godfather, Anthony Chuirizzi of the Bronx, New York, was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin, trimmed with real lace, patterned on princess lines with train. Her veil, made cap shape, was adorned with seed pearls and rhinestones and she carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies and gypsophilia, caught with streamers to match.

Miss Dorothy DeMarco as maid of honor, was attired in blue taffeta, patterned on graceful lines, with long toe length skirt. A braid of satin ribbon to match was worn on her head and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses. Serving as bridesmaids were Mary Padula, sister of the bride; Josephine Morgan and Marie Roman, all of this city. They, too, were lovely in their gowns of white lace, set off with shell pink sashes and braids of the same were their head dress. Each carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

Little Carlotta May Christofer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Christofer of Oak street, was flower girl and also ring bearer. She was dainty in a frock of pink taffeta, with accessories to match. She carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered about.

Sam Aiscione served as best man, and those ushering included John Frank, Louie Russo and Peter Russo, all close friends of the groom.

Adding further to the impressiveness of the occasion, the church organist played a program of appropriate selections.

Following a short congratulatory period, a reception was held at Spinella hall, with several hundred guests participating. Later in the day the newlyweds departed on a trip to New York and other places of interest, and upon their return they will be "at home" to friends at 731 Pearl street. For traveling the bride wore a blue and white tailored ensemble with accompaniments to match, and a shoulder corsage.

The young couple received a magnificent collection of wedding gifts.

Guests were present from Ashtabula, O., Pittsburgh, New York City, Buffalo, N. Y., and other vicinities.

MANZANI-GAIBIS WEDDING PRETTY

Another pretty wedding of the season was that of Miss Pierina Manzani, daughter of Peter Manzani, Harrison street, and Carl Gaibis, son of Mrs. Fannie Gaibis, DuShane street, Monday morning, July 5, in St. Joseph's church. The Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Doerr officiated.

To the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, the bride proceeded to the altar tn the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in a gown of white mousseline de soie, toe length with a full skirt and train.

She wore a beautiful veil of tulle and lace trimmed with orange blossoms and carried a white prayer book which held streamers of white ribbon and lilies of the valley. The book was sent to the bride by an aunt, in Italy, especially for the occasion, it being an heirloom which has been in the family for many generations.

As maid of honor, Miss Sylvia Zannoni, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of blue mousseline de soie, made along same lines as that of the bride with the exception of the train. Her accessories were white. A coloniel bouquet tied with streamers completed her ensemble. Pat Fusco, cousin of the groom, served as best man.

A dinner followed the ring ceremony at the groom's home with covers for 35 guests. A tiered wedding cake, baked by the bride's sister, Miss Onda Manzani, formed the centerpiece. Later in the day, the newlyweds departed for a short honeymoon in Cleveland and Akron. On their return they will reside on Harrison street. Mr. Gaibis is affiliated with National Radiator company and is also a painter. His father was the late well knawn artist and decorator, David Gaibis.

START OF A NEW AIR ROUTINE

DUAL flights across the Atlantic, initiating what presently will be scheduled regular trans-oceanic air voyages, seem tame to the air-minded public in 1937 on both continents. However, the casual way in which the monster airliners made their long-heralded trips is noteworthy.

For more than a decade men have been flying the Atlantic. What is more natural, the public properly reasons, than starting to put the trips on a systematic basis?

Yet if we thus take in our stride this demonstration of readiness for cloudland voyages in almost any weather over the Northern Atlantic route in summer and, shortly, via Bermuda and the Azores in winter, it is right that Captain Harold E. Gray, piloting the Pan American Clipper III eastward, and Captain A. S. Wilcockson of the Imperial Airways craft which came westward to Newfoundland, together with their crews, should be admitted to that immortal fraternity of aviation "firsts," most of them still living, who have given us dependable wings and have unlocked Polar and jungle doors alike.

With dirigible travel now at a standstill, super-airliner traffic across the Atlantic has been brought gradually to fruition. Craft perfection and public confidence has been developed together, with practicality and financial feasibility not overlooked. This double crossing, by its lack of theatricals, indicates an encouraging synchronization of man's present aerial desires and his own ability to fulfill them.

SLOW DRIVING ALSO MENACE

"Sunday drivers" drive too slowly, according to Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol. As a result, they cause an extremely high percentage of accidents. He rates them not far behind "drunken drivers" in the harm they do.

Those same slow drivers are probably interested in gazing at the Sabbath scenery, and in saving gas, rather than getting somewhere. And morally they deserve sympathy and support. But practically, this authority holds, they are road pests and malefactors, when they do their dawdling on the main highways. If they want to dream and dawdle, they had better do it on the side roads. Jaloppies that won't go any faster should be scrapped.

The best practical speed rule, in general, is the simple rule of "going with the traffic." That keeps the driving in the rhythm of the procession. It saves drivers behind him, who may really have reason for hurry, from taking rash chances in shooting ahead. It keeps the road space between cars reasonably filled with an orderly, though rapid, succession of cars, tending to prevent jams and clots.

The ideal condition, naturally, is a modern roadway with four or five lanes, in which every driver may safely choose his speed-lane and hold to it. But it will be many years before that ideal prevails.

REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA

Writing in the New York Times, Harold Denny, an informed student of Russian affairs, expresses the belief that the safest group of Russians today may be the former "class enemies," members of the old aristocratic and middle classes. Even safer are the members of that little band of Russians who were so fortunate as to pitch their tents in the immediate neighborhood of the North Pole, where they are not within easy range of one of Stalin's firing squads.

Many have undertaken to explain for the enlightenment of a bewildered world just what is happening behind the Soviet facade of censorship. One explanation is more fantastic than another, and their net result is to establish the fact that scores are being executed for treason, sabotage and for the vague, but deadly, offense of Trotzkyism.

The true explanation of it all, quite probably, lies deep in the heart of Stalin, but an interested public will not go far wrong if it draws certain general conclusions. It seems safe to assume in the light of all that is happening that Russia is seething, that the forces of revolution are at work, and that Stalin will be hard pressed to maintain the established order.

And it is also safe to say that the Russian people today are living under conditions of tyranny just as cruel and ruthless as those that prevailed when the Cossacks held sway with bayonet and knout.

BUT STILL THERE IS PEACE

One of the inescapable conclusions to be reached by the thoughtful upon pondering world events is that sentiment for peace is sufficiently strong to restrain even the natural impulses of incendiaries in positions of power. One of the explanations of the failure of war to materialize notwithstanding that conditions are provocative is the extensive impoverishment of Europe, but there is a great deal of history to prove that economic difficulties are not a preventive of war and that they do not hasten the establishment of peace once war is in progress.

The one dominant deterrent against war at the present writing, when so many signs point to its inevitability, is the knowledge by those in control that public sentiment is hostile to war and that this sentiment cannot be ignored without the certainty that social unrest will develop. No one is more fully aware of this feeling than Mussolini, who saw the hostility of the Italian people develop quickly when the excursion into Ethiopia began to produce stringency in varied forms at home.

There has been more than enough to provide a basis for war in Europe during the last few months. If the feelings of the masses were not so set against war it would have flared forth a dozen times from developments in Spain, where Italy and Germany have been playing a dangerous game from the beginning. And on the Far Eastern Front, where Russia and Japan actually clashed, the thin line dividing peace from war would have been crossed had it not been for doubt whether the plunge into conflict would be sustained by the home front.

Though storm clouds blacken the skies and thunder rumbles, it is unlikely that dictators whose control hangs upon a slender thread will go too far in their defiance of a feeling of hostility to war that is deeply rooted in the hearts of the masses.

Four boards of inquiry into the Hindenburg disaster have produced the expected result—four different conclusions.

Comedian Ed Wynn, ordered by the court to pay one wife $300 a week, has taken another. The theory behind it all, we understand, is much the same as that which makes it desirable to have a toothache to divert attention from arthritis in the left knee.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DAUGHTER IS SARCASTIC

The Guest writer today is a woman's page editor.

"Arguments! Sass! Backtalk! That is all I hear from my 13-year-old daughter. This had been going on for so long a time that I had grown somewhat resigned to my fate. I felt the situation to be the most hopeless of any I had ever handled.

"Why Two years ago, when we had such a time over washing and drying dishes, it never seemed so difficult as this situation which now faced me. The dish question had been one of unceasing argument until I suggested we try alternating nights, and on our respective duty nights we would not only be expected to wash, but wipe the dishes as well. This suggestion met with approval and it worked like a charm! . . .

"But getting back to the petty arguing. . . . One day I was especially tired from a busy cleaning day. I was finishing the dishes and felt very 'touchy'. What annoyed me most was the fact that there were still things to be done and my daughter ignored them and went about her own business. I immediately took exception to this and started 'picking' on her. 'You never make any effort to help me,' I complained. 'What is the matter with you? Can't you see that the rooms must be dusted? Must I always tell you what to do?'

Not The End Of Complaint

"The foregoing was not the end of my complaint by any means. In fact, it was just the beginning of a heated argument between mother and daughter. I suddenly realized that my daughter was not only talking back to me, but her phrases were definitely sarcastic. The fact startled me! This was the limit! I grabbed her and said, 'Young lady, explain exactly why you dare to speak to me in that tone of voice!' The child turned her large brown eyes on me and staring boldly into my face answered clearly, 'That is how you talk to me!'

"I need not say the explanation quite stunned me. Of all the reasons that had run through my brain in trying to fathom this problem, I had never once examined myself for the answer. Since that day I have paid particular attention to my manner of speech and caught myself many times in the act of being sarcastic and 'grouchy'. I feel that with improvement in myself I will automatically correct this fault in my girl."

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

LETTER TO A GRADUATE

"DEAR BOY: Your mother tells me that you got out of college this year and you haven't a job and you don't know what you are going to do with your life. She thinks a letter from me might help you to get yourself straightened around. I disagree with her. You've probably reached your situation point as far as the receiving of advice is concerned. Commencement exercises are famous for that sort of thing. Some old fellow who has succeeded gets on a platform and tells a lot of boys and girls half a century younger than he is how they ought to think and what they ought to do. A third of what he says is out-of-date, a third is false, the other third is sound enough but difficult to apply. So you're not in the market for advice from me, whatever your good mother may think.

"Nevertheless, I can't resist giving you ONE scrap of advice. It is worth a fortune if you can use it when you need it. So put this away in a corner of your memory and take it out some day when the going is rough.

"Avoid self-pity like the plague. If you are already afflicted by that disease, get yourself cured at once. If you have the slightest tendency in that direction, guard yourself. More human beings are ruined by self-pity than by drink, bad luck, or cantankerousness. If you're sorry for yourself when you make a mistake, when you lose a job, when you fail to get a promised promotion, or when the girl you like doesn't like you, then you are half licked before you start. A prison warden told me not long ago that the worst evil he had to combat in prison cells was self-pity. He could handle everything else, but self-pity was almost incurable. And if self-pity is so dangerous to men behind bars who are handed their board and lodging, how do you think it will affect a young fellow who has to go out and WORK for his food and bed? That's enough from me, I think. I've done my duty as your mother wished. I've given you the one golden scrap of truth I possess. I hope you don't need it, but if you ever do I hope it is useful to you. And DON'T forget to tell your mother I wrote you an excellent letter containing priceless gobs of advice. By the way, if you have any self-pity in your nature, you can be sure you didn't get it from HER. Your old friend, M. M."

In some places there are many who are registering as Democrats. That often don't mean anything. We have known of five to one being registered as Republicans, and at the election the Democratic vote was twice that of the Republicans. Good Taste

Reg U S Pat Office

By Francine Markel

DEAR MISS MARKEL—I have received an invitation to a chistening reception. Does this require a reply? Does it mean that I must send a gift? T. N.

Answer—You should make either a verbal or a written reply.

Since only relatives and intimate friends are invited to such a function and you are doubtless one of either, you should send a gift to the new-born child. Usually, all close friends and relatives send gifts to a newly arrived baby, even when there is no christening reception.

Dear Miss Markel—Could you suggest some simple way of introducing (1) a girl and boy; (2) a boy and girl to a group of boys and girls; (3) two girls? M. Mc.

Answer—(1) Introduce the boy to the girl always—Miss Smith, this is Mr. Jones. Boys are always introduced to girls; never girls to boys. (2) In group introductions, it is not necessary to adhere strictly to this rule, since such a procedure would prove awkward. You may correctly present the newcomers to the group in the order in which the members of the group are standing; thus: Miss Blank this is Miss First Member of the group, Mr. Second Member, Miss Third Member, etc., etc., presenting the boy in the same manner. (3) When introducing two women to each other, no distinction is made, unless one is very much younger than the other. In the case of two girls, no distinction need be made.

Why doesn't somebody get at the bottom of our economic troubles instead of plunging the victims deeper into them? We do not know.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WILFUL SABOTAGE

It is said on good authority that this year 500 bills were introduced before state legislatures which would add $1,000,000,000 to the cost of operating the American railroads, and which, if passed, would undoubtedly lead to rapid breakdown of private operation. Such an avalanche of political attention directed toward a single industry can be the result of one of two things,—either dismal failure in the performance of a public obligation by the rails, or a glittering success and political rarely attack failures.

In the case of the railroad industry, it is apparent that progressive, efficient and reliable operation, strange as it may seem, has drawn the fire of politics. During nearly a century of operation the railroads have striven to give constantly better service. During good times and bad, advancement has gone steadily on. Heavier rails were laid, better brakes developed, larger, more powerful locomotives built, etc., etc. Even in the toughest year of depression "behind the scenes" development, which the public seldom sees, continued unabated. Sorting of cars was speeded up, freight was moved with greater dispatch. In fact, speed of freight trains has been stepped up 43 per cent in recent years, and a ton of freight is now hauled for less than a penny a mile.

Flag waving does not accompany railroad progress. Few people realize, for example, that fresh berries they enjoy so often for breakfast, travel by rail on the average of 1200 miles before they're served; nor that the common necessity, butter, averages a journey of 927 miles before it is spread on the morning toast; or that delicious fried eggs average 1353 miles in their trek to the American breakfast table.

This is the record of a great industry, which politicians, greedy for patronage and power and more government domination of every human activity, are constantly attacking.

Hints On Etiquette

It is very poor taste to wear gay colors at a funeral. Simple black clothes are most appropriate.

MEMORIES OF FRIENDS

If here in friendship you should call
And praise a picture on the wall
Of from a shelf reach down a book
To thumb its pages through, or look
With favor on one thing you see
Henceforth a part of it you'll be.

If once to dine with us you stay,
Long after you have gone away.
And every time we sit to eat
Your favorite culinary treat,
You may not know it; but right then
You will be here with us again.

If once you walk our garden round
And praise some little bloom you've found,
Singling it out from all the rest
As one that pleases you the best
That bit of blossom, pink or blue
Henceforth will be a part of you.

This door of ours which seems so stout
Swings in for friends but never out.
If but a little while they stay
Henceforth they never go away
For always something we shall find
To call them often back to mind.

Catch Crime In Cradle Suggests Psychiatrist

Motto Of New York Woman Psychiatrist Is To Catch Crime In Infancy

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH.—"Catch crime in the cradle" is the motto of Dr. Margaret Fries of New York.

Speaking here before the joint session of the American Psychiatric and Psycho-pathological Associations, Dr. Fries explained, that an infant's "behavior patterns" can be determined before it is ten day old.

Thus, said Dr. Fries, his or her environment and future life can be arranged to prevent psychiatric disorders that sometimes lead into crime.

Reporting on ten cases where she began to give psychiatric and other types of aid before the child was born and 47 children whose development she aided from the age of six weeks, Dr. Fries said:

Early Behavior Patterns

"Early behavior may be classified into definite patterns which are still present at one year. These patterns can be influenced when correlative medical, psychiatric and educational treatment is administered to the entire family. Such treatment is easier, less expensive, and more efficacious when started during pregnancy."

A nationwide program of "personality development" during the pre-natal period and early childhood was envisioned by Dr. Fries.

"The step-up is already here," she remarked. "The practical way is to institute preventive mental hygiene by adding a psychiatrist and psychiatrically trained case-worker to pre-natal clinics, obstetric service, well baby, and pre-school clinics."

Even the father would come under the scrutiny of the worker before the baby is born in order to determine how to adapt the child to his personality, said Dr. Fries.

Her cases, she said, have shown three types of children—over-active, moderately-active, and under-active.

Town Boasts Of Rabbit Septuplets

FRANKLIN, Pa.—Cellendar, Ontario, can boast about its famous quintuplets but citizens of this community think they have something better to shout about—nothing less than septuplets.

The only catch in it is that Franklin's septuplets are rabbits—but just the same the community is plenty proud of its furry offsprings.

Five of the bunnies are fed pasteurized milk with an eye dropper. The other two members of the family were inadvertently killed by a dog which discovered the nest tucked away on a hillside overlooking several of Franklin's street.

Fool-Proof Fish Hook Invented For Fishermen

'Fool-Proof' Gaff Hook Invented For Fishermen Always Losing "Big Ones"

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—The silvery Chinook salmon is a hardy fish but he'll need all of his strength and wiles to escape the increasing number of hurdles being thrown across his watery path to the spawning grounds.

The latest of a flurry of recent fishing inventions here is a "fool-proof" gaff hook devised by A. R. Eastman for the benefit of fishermen who always lose the 'big ones."

Eastman received his idea by practical experiences—he "played out" several fish only to lose them off his gaff hook. The new hook is hastened to an invisible spring handle. The spring is made of airplane cable and pulls out under 17-pound pressure. Once extended, the airplane cable gives the hook flexibility and allows it to twist and turn with the fish instead of remaining rigid. The flexibility, Eastman said, prevents the hook from tearing the flesh and breaking loose. It also reduces a salmon's chances of flopping off the smooth point.

No Fear Of Breaking

The cable spring will support a 200 pound man, so the inventor is not afraid of it breaking under a salmon's weight.

Eastman has sent a large hook to President Roosevelt, and he expects it to get a practical test during the President's next deep-sea fishing venture. Patent is pending on the rotating gaff hook.

Other fishing tackle inventions introduced here recently include a "fool proof" sinker, which rolls out from under rocks and snags on the river bottom; and an automatic "fish counter" that fits inside an angler's basket and keeps track of the number of fish shoved through the "trap" until the legal limit has been reached.

Mr. Farley has notified postmasters to accept for mailing "baby terrapin, shellfish, alligators, horned toads, frogs, lizards, newts, queen bees, goldfish, bloodwarms, snails and soft crabs," but bread and clothing are too unusual.

Yet the proudest of all "creative work" would be babies if only a talented expert could create one.

When sleeping quarters in the Central Armory in Cleveland became too crowded, several hundred Ohio National Guardsmen, sent to Cleveland for the reopening of steel mills, pitched their cots in the city's spacious Public hall, as shown above. It was here that the Republic national convention was held last year.

Soviet Girls Will Pioneer In East

(International News Service)

MOSCOW.—More than 20,000 young women in European Russia have succumbed to the lure of the East. They have answered the call of the Young Communist League for pioneers to settle in the remote and undeveloped Far Eastern regions of Soviet Russia.

Because those regions are both rich in resources and vital to the country's defense, the Kremlin is anxious to populate them as rapidly as possible. The Young Communist League, therefore, has called for volunteers—particularly young women.

As a result, newspaper offices and the Young Communist committee are flooded with applications and girls have already begun to arrive in Khabarovsk and other Far Eastern cities.

They will work, it is stated, in the auxiliary organizations of the Red Army and Navy and in the industrial centers. Some of the places that need such "colonists" are Khabarovsk, Vladivostok, the Kamohatka Peninsula, Sakhalien Island, and northern Kolyma.

Two specially equipped sleeping-cars have been reserved for the pioneers on every regular Moscow to Vladisvostok train.

Many "Hot Dogs" Will Be Consumed At San Francisco

Predicts Consumption Of 2,880,000 Pounds Of Hot Dogs At Exposition

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—What is a World's Fair without hot dog stands?

"If there are no hot dogs, there simply isn't a real fair," according to Frederick Weddleton, director of concessions for the 1939 Golden Gate Internatnonal Exposition.

Weddleton today concluded an unusual survey of the gastronomical feats of visitors to fairs of the past and came forth with the prediction that 2,880,000 pounds of hot dogs will be consumed at the San Francisco exposition.

"Offhand," said Weddleton, "it would appear that 3,600 head of cattle, each weighing 800 pounds dressed, would have to be sacrificed willy-nilly on the altar of sustenance to furnish the raw material for these hot dogs.

Even Greater Casualties.

"But, in reality, the cow casualties will be even greater than this, for a dressed cow is not a boned cow.

"When 30 per cent of a dressed cow is estimated to be bone, then the bovine casualties shoot up to 4,680"

Weddleton predicted that the steers—and their sisters—will reappear before the public as 34,560,000 individual hot dogs.

Extremely simple arithmetic disclosed that if these 34,560,000 hot dogs were laid end to end they would stretch out 17,280,000 feet, or some 273 miles," Weddleton added.

Ohioan Found To Be Inventor Of Safe Helium Gas

Former Cleveland Man Originally Discovered The U. S. Helium Supply

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., July 9.—Since the Hindenburg disaster the name of a native Ohioan has come to the forefront as the discoverer of helium.

George A. Burrell, formerly of Cleveland and a graduate of Ohio State university, personally found the helium supply in Texas and organized the U. S. government heluim program.

Burrell now is a consulting petroleum engineer in Pittsburgh. He was awarded the distinguished service medal for his war time researches in the field of chemistry and received the Lammo medal for brilliant work in engineering.

There seems to be general agreement that anything is better than compulsory arbitration, but of course nobody has consulted the fellows in the morgue.

Village Officers Work Without Pay

Little Community Can Not Pay Officials, Has Efficient Government

(International News Service)

BELLEVUE, O., July 9.—The nearby unincorporated village of Flat Rock believes it has found the answer to the question of how to provide efficient government for a community so small it cannot afford salaries for public officials.

Two years ago, Flat Rock instituted a Public Committee, composed of 12 residents who had been elected to office by fellow residents and who served without salaries. Begun as an experiment, the plan proved successful, was continued, and the third public committee has just been elected.

Nor has it been difficult to arouse the interest of local burghers to serve on the committee. Twenty-five competed for the office this year, in a spirited election. Not only is the plan conductive to good government, say local inhabitants, but it has re-awakened civic interest.

All residents 21 years old or over are eligible to vote at the central voting bureau, which is also the village postoffice and community center.

Would-be committeemen campaign for office on a platform basis. Among the movements which have been initiated as a result of the community's approval of certain platforms have been the agitation for reconstruction of the Flat Rock-Bellevue road, a sidewalk repair campaign, request for a Red Cross emergency station, improvement of the branch library, and erection of more traffic signs.

WARNS AGAINST SPEEDY RISING

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—It's dangerous to jump right out of bed the very minute you wake up, says Dr. Maurice Auguste Boigey, prominent French physician and physiologist.

In agreeing with the French medico, a University of Pennsylvania medical authority declares that "even a dog, upon awakening, will stretch a few times before getting up unless you wake him with a cat."

The sleeper is advised to wait 20 minutes to allow time for certain physiological adjustments to take place. During sleep the flexible blood vessels are relaxed, and have more space in them than there is blood to fill. If the sleeper stands up suddenly the blood rushes into the lower part of the body draining away from the brain. This accounts for dizziness and in the case of certain blood vessel diseases of the brain might produce thrombosis.

Inventor Produces Horse Windshield

Many Strange Inventions Come Before Patent Board For Rights

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON.—A windshield for horses, a muzzle for chickens and an eraser that rubs out mistakes by its own powers were listed among the newest inventions in today's issue of the U. S. Patent Gazette.

To John E. Torbert, Jr., of National City, Cal., goes the credit for perfecting a windshield device for the convenience of horses in particular and quadrupeds in general. Torbert's invention comes complete with a windshield wiper that can be operated by the animal's tail.

The poultry muzzle, made of metal which fits snuggly over the beak, was credited to John Clayton Cridlebaugh, of Woodinville, Wash.

Herman Lukowski, of New York City, contributed the power-driven eraser, the Gazette reported. The eradicator contains a tiny electric power plant for which batteries supply the current.

A cigarette holder that prevents ashes from falling on rugs, clothing, etc., and designed to appeal to finicky housewives, was developed by James Mills, of Arcola, N. C.

Leo Blumenthal of Berlin, was granted a patent on a bath mat, the surface of which is studded with rough material to simulate a gravel walk. By stepping across the mat, the user supposedly exercises and massages his feet.

CHECKPASSER SURRENDERS

(International News Service)

BOSTON—"Why sure, come right down and see me," was the cool answer given by Detective George O. Breach to the alleged worthless checkpasser, wanted by police of several greater Boston cities, who telephoned him saying, "This is Reginald Libby. Things have been getting too hot for me. I want to give myself up." A short time later, Libby walked into Breach's office and was turned over to Boston officers.

OLD DRESS DONATED

(International News Service)

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Old silk dresses, of the type worn in the 1850's, several old shawls, a christening dress and cap, as well as a picture of the owner of the gowns, were among articles donated the Fleming Museum, University of Vermont, by the Misses Georgia, Elizabeth and Margaret Bellinger, of Lake George, N. Y.

School Cost In New Castle Is Under Average

Cost Of Operation Here Is Slightly Lower Per Pupil Than General

FIGURES GIVEN FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—The per student cost of maintaining and operating public schools is slightly lower in New Castle than the average city of its population class, according to a study just released by the United States Office of Education.

The Office of Education found that current expenses for maintaining and operating the public school system during the 1935-36 term averaged $81.38 per student in New Castle. In 80 cities as a group, varying between 30,000 and 100,000 population, the per student outlay was $90.09, or about $9 greater than the New Castle average. Of the 80 cities, 42 had greater and 37 had smaller per student costs than New Castle.

The increase in per student costs during the 1935-36 term, however, was greater in New Castle than all but nine of the cities. The New Castle per student outlay was 16.8 per cent greater in the 1935-36 term than in the previous school year.

Of the 80 cities in the New Castle population group, New Rochelle, New York, had the greater per student costs in the 1935-36 term. Such expenditures averaged $205.06 in that city compared with the New Castle average of $81.38. Gadsden, Alabama, ranked lowest in this population class, with an average of $26.54.

New Castle costs of the 1935-36 term were broken down according to expenditures per student and percentage of the total as follows: for general control, $3.73 per student, 4.6 per cent of total expenditures; for instruction, $62.06 per student, 76.2 per cent of the total; for plant operation, $9.74 per student, 12 per cent of the total; for plant maintenance, $2.91 per student, 3.6 per cent of the total; for coordinate activities and auxiliary agencies, $1.15 per student, 1.4 per cent of the total; fixed charges, $1.79 per student, 2.2 per cent of the total.

Tax Loopholes Will Be Plugged

Legislation To Be Submitted To Prevent Many Tax Evasions

TREASURY SEES $100,000,000 YEARLY

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Treasury tax experts have informed the Senate-House Tax Investigating committee that they expect to submit anti-loophole legislation which will increase tax revenues $100,000,000 a year.

The estimate was based upon the alleged use of legal loopholes by wealthy taxpayers as disclosed at the committee's public hearings, during which names of some of the largest taxpayers of the country were made public.

The proposed anti-loophole legislation—changing present law—is designed to prevent lowering of surtaxes by use of personal holding companies and multiple trusts, and to increase the tax which foreigners must pay upon the earnings from their enormous American investments.

"The exact amount that may be saved by legislation is uncertain," said Chairman Doughton. "It depends upon the increasing use being made of devices. It might be $100,000,000 the first year and it might amount to $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 in subsequent years if the devices are made illegal."

Methods Long Known

Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill admitted that most of the legal tax-reducing devices used by some wealthy taxpayers have been known for years. It is the increasing use of them, since federal and state income taxes have soared to new high limits, that has made the devices important, he said.

Some committee members indicated a belief that plugging up all of the loopholes named by the treasury probably would not save the treasury more than $25,000,000 in taxes.

Personal holding companies, chief object of the treasury in its investigation, now pay taxes ranging from eight to 48 per cent. Aliens pay a 10 per cent flat withholding tax upon American earnings.

Chairman Doughton asserted that none of the taxpayers named in the hearings has requested a hearing, although several have publicly challenged the statements of treasury officials and said they have complied with the law.

Four Horsemen Of Highway Are Named

This Year's Death Toll Freely Predicted To Reach 50,000

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Alcohol speed, recklessness and incompetence have been described by Keystone Automobile Club officialdom as the "four horsemen of the highway."

"This year's death toll is freely predicted to reach an all-time high of 50,000," editorialized the "Keystone Motorist," club publication. "All doubt should be dispelled by the record of operators' license revocations in Pennsylvania during the first four months and 10 days of 1937.

"Out of a total of 1,899 license revocations, 1,406 drivers were denied the operating privilege because of intoxication, coupled in many cases with other serious offenses of motor vehicle law."

Accuse Youth Of Attack Upon Chicago Girl

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 9.—Her body torn by 23 wounds inflicted with icepick and shears, a 9-year-old girl lay near death today as police held John Ardelean, 17, high school honor student, who admitted attacking and stabbing the child.

The youth, a senior at Senn high school where he was an athlete and a brilliant student, admitted luring the child into the basement of a building where his father, Sam, is the janitor, on the pretext that one of her playmates was there "reading funny papers".

Unsuspecting, the girl went into the basement where her husky assailant attacked and assaulted her after ripping off her clothes.

POULTRY FEATHERS BOOST FARM INCOME

HARRISBURG—A Philadelphia lawyer who took up gentleman-farming in Berks county has transferred the farm from his list of liabilities to his inventory assets by marketing the feathers from his poultry.

Taking a tip from the big meat packers who process everything except the squeal and cud, he took an inventory of the waste by-products of his farm and investigated their money-making possibilities. He found that the United States annually imports several millions of dollars in feathers and that he could profitably market the feathers from his farm.

He is now offering to market the feathers of his Berks county neighbors and plans to expand his feather business into other counties, according to the Bureau of Markets, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, at Harrisburg.

Newspaper Man Turns Florist

Once Lively Broadway Inhabitant Is Now In Staid Profession

MAIDEN LANE LOSES GLAMOUR

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 9.—Thoughts while strolling: Italy before Mussolini—strikes, strikes and nothing but strikes Jewel names: Tay Garnett, the Diamond Brothers, Rose Saphire, Harry Ruby and Jack Pearl. The old medicine show commedian Tom Howard. Now a radio feature.

Trigger stuff: A perfume already marketed in honor of the Windsor Duchess. Add talented redheads: Burgess Meredith. No comedian can look so utterly goofy as Bert Lahr. Name any popular song of the past 25 years and the A. P.'s Kent Cooper can play it on the piano by ear.

Talent with out-standing ears: Noel Coward, Fred Astaire and Clark Gable. To put over a song, I'll still take Sophie Tucker and Harry Richman. George Abbott has taken George S. Kaufman's place as the theatre's No. 1 Miracle Man. That twinkly Lois Long smile.

Not many masters of ceremony can top George Jessel in flossing up an introduction. Frank Chapman is almost out-duding Lucius Beebe these days. Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, the zoo reptile expert. Once a newspaperman himself, Edwin Baimer doesn't walk, he zooms.

Rhyme: Whiskers by Billy De Beck are the funniest, by Heck! When a great man dies, I think of the poet's line about Lincoln: "A giant oak toppled and left a void against the sky." The town always seems just a little bit livelier when Gene Fowler is in our midst. And that's personality.

Broadway after quite a lapse, has heard from Ned Welsh, once a roaming reporter on the old Morning Telegraph. He described himself as: "The grave of a million high-balls." And was always where the crowds were thickest and lights brightest. Thus Time Marches On! Today he is a florist in Boston, catering flowers to staid old Beacon Hill families, puttering around his greenhouses and motoring every night to a farm in Essex where he raises collies and pheasants.

Welsh was contemporaneous with Charlie Somerville, who covered Broadway for the Morning World. Somerville was the first journalist to sport a gold-headed cane, a gift to him from the actor, Sir Forbes-Robertson. In those days the long bar of the Hotel Marlborough was a rendezvous for journalistic aristocrats. Across the way was the Herald, which contributed its quota to the Marlborough trade. Newspapering somehow seemed a more enchanted calling in those days. Crack men of the profession cared only for life and its excitements. To the world they were models of modesty, but to their fellows they had the bluster of Edmund Kean, setting down tankards with a bang and roaring contempt for city editors. Quick, fluent, moody, they lived hard and dangerously. Few reached 50.

There are many conjectures as to the age of Major Bowes. He confesses to "50 and a little bit." My private guess is that he is flirting with the late 50's. But few wear years so lightly. He has the enthusiasm of the 20's, plus the energies of the 30's. He goes through his mail personally, being a block reader who digests a page at a glance. Nobody with a legitimate right fails to see him and he answers all telephone calls. He carries on a regular system of exercise, but lately due to the high pressure of duties has had to curtail social engagements. He accepts but one dinner engagement a week.

Maiden Lane always seemed to me the most attractively named thoroughfare in the metropolis. Once it was lined almost solidly with jewelry establishments. There are such stores there today, but a large number have joined the hegira uptown to the new jewelry district in the 40's. It used to be a stunt in the old Maiden Lane days to sidle up slowly to a jewelry shop window and glance about furtively. Almost magic-like, there would appear out of nowhere, a detective on either side to see that no window was bricked or any other thieving trickery indulged.

Maiden Lane, I believe, was the generating ground of one of the most perplexing problems I ever faced. One noon after lunch I was browsing through the district in a leisurely saunter and somehow was eddied out to the curb where I fell in conversation with one of the sandwich men so numerous in the area. Suddenly he asked me to hold his banner a moment and shoved it against me and darted across the street. I waited at least 20 minutes, feeling wretchedly uncomfortable and conspicuous. Finally I leaned it against a post and went back to my news room. That evening on the way home I passed through the block. The banner was still there. And had I been half as accomplished plotting as O. Henry, it would have provided the ingredients of a bangup short story with one of those unusual twists for a finale.

Street Job In Union Township Is Progressing

Atkinson Street Is Receiving Hard Stone Base In Preparation For Top

Workmen were today spreading crushed stone along the newly cut Atkinson street, Union township, as a base for the earth surface which is to be applied in the near future.

This street, which formerly was but a short street, beginning at Grandview avenue, is now being lengthened and opened through to Scotland Lane.

Completion of this task is seen within the next week or ten days. As soon as all of the stone is in place the workmen will place the surface and open the street to traffic.

Cotton Wins British Open

One Of Britains Best Golfers Has Aggregate Of 290 For 72 Holes Of Play

By THOMAS C. WATSON
International News Service Sports Writer

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 9.—Henry Cotton, Great Britain's greatest golfer, today won the British open golf championship with a sub-par final round of 71 and a four round total of 290.

Playing under conditions so bad that the championship committee twice inspected the course with a view to cancelling the fourth and final round, the Englishman showed his mettle by making sensational shots down water-logged fairways, through casual water and over greens that were actually submerged from a terrific downpour.

But neither wind nor water nor a three stroke deficit going into the final round could stop the man who won the title in 1934 to break a strangle hold Americans had held on it for many years.

The Americans were nowhere today. Only Charley Lacey, the New Yorker, who was ineligible for Ryder cup play because he was born in England, had a chance. He needed a pair of threes on his last two holes to tie and he wasn't equal to the occasion.

No Union Contracts For U. S. Employes

Neither Do Federal Employes Have Right To Strike Says President

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—With John L. Lewis' C.I.O. undertaking organization of government workers here, President Roosevelt today asserted that the government could not make contracts with any federal worker.

The president further declared federal employes do not have the right to strike under civil service laws.

The president made clear at his press conference, however, that any employe could join any union he wanted to, or as many as he wanted to. Majorities, minorities and even individual employes should have the right of hearing before administrative officers of their department, he added;

On the question of pay, however, congress established the formula and any change must come by legislation, the president said.

AUTO FIRE CAUSE AT MIDNIGHT ALARM

The blaze had been extinguished by the time firemen arrived with the use of a fire extinguisher and wet towels.

Finds Near Winter Atmosphere Here; As Mercury Soars

(By the Cub Reporter)

Chief, don't get sore when I tell where I was yesterday. I know I was away all afternoon. But you can't blame me with the thermometer playing tricks at 92 and 93 degrees.

While you and most of the New Castle residents were suffering under the sweltering heat, I found myself a paradise—the coolest spot in town—where the temperature was near the freezing point.

I worked my way into a cooler of a local packing house and parked in a nice corner, alongside a husky piece of heifer or ox or something. I sat there and laughed. Everyone was complaining about the weather and here I was as cool as could be.

So you see chief, this kind of weather sort of sends me scurrying for a cool nook. This packing cooler number is a bit of all right. That's why I was away, so chief, "S'cuse, please."

The next concert at Cascade is scheduled for Thursday, July 22.

ANOTHER STRIKE CLOSED PLANT NOW REOPENED

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, July 9.—Reopening of another major industrial plant long closed by a strike marked this city's labor situation today.

More than 200 men, chief maintenance workers, entered the industrial Rayon plant here under heavy police guard. None of the national guard troops in the city on steel strike duty was present.

Hayden S. Kline, vice-president, said other employes would be called back next week for resumption of operations. The plant normally employs 1,200. The plant has been closed since May 17 by a strike of CIO textile workers.

Becker Must Die In Chair

HARRISBURG, July 9.—John Becker, Brookville, convicted of the assault-slaying of a Pittsburgh-Shawmut Railroad Company woman telegrapher, today was ordered by the state pardon board to pay the supreme penalty—death in the electric chair—for the brutal slaying.

Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, following a personal investigation, recommended that Beck's clemency plea be refused. The board heard the convicted slayer's appeal for mercy at a special session of the pardon board, first of its kind held in the history of the pardon body.

Miss Katherine Bracken, victim of the crime, was found dead along a cinder bank near where she worked April 10, 1936.

Putnam Clings To Faint Hope Of Amelia's Safety

Pins Hope On Search To Be Made By Planes From U. S. Lexington

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—George Palmer Putnam and Mary Noonan still clung to a shred of faint hope today that their lost globe-girdling spouses, Amelia Earhart and Captain Fred Noonan, are safe on some tiny mid-Pacific isle.

They said they would not give up hope until it is determined definitely that further search would avail nothing.

Putnam and Mrs. Noonan were staking high hopes on the search to be made by the aircraft carrier Lexington's 62 planes which will soar into the hunt Monday—probably before.

The Lexington, which will steam south from Hawaii for the scene of search late today, was still being refueled at Lahaina Roads.

Putnam was advised of an amateur radio operator's report to coast guard headquarters here last night.

The amateur operator said he talked with another amateur at Station WHOC in Durham, N. C., last night, and that the Durham amateur told him he had heard the letter "A" being repeated on 3105 kilocycles, the wave length of Miss Earhart's plane.

Putnam was advised that coast guard officials were checking the report.

"I hope it might be news," he said.

A week of watching and waiting has left him worn and haggard.

Mrs. Noonan in Oakland continued to operate her beauty salon, trying to keep her mind off the search "until there is good news."

From the office of J. W. Moorehead, local executive director of the Department of Public Assistance, General Assistance Branch, who is also director of CCC selection, came the announcement today that Lawrence county's official July requisition for CCC replacements will be 51, 48 white juniors and three colored juniors.

Boys wishing to enroll for CCC camp are asked to make out applications at 321 South Mill street (old knitting mill building). Eligibility requirements include: unmarried, between 17 and 23 years of age, both inclusive, unemployed and in need of the type of employment, job training and work experience afforded by CCC, natural born or fully naturalized citizens of the United States, not regularly attending or on vacation from school, not on probation or parole or under conviction of crime, physically and mentally fit to perform requirements of CCC service.

As fully as possible, Mr. Moorehead announced, the county quota will be filled with boys from Department of Public Assistance, consolidated relief rolls, namely: unemployed, old age, blind and MAF. After all possible eligible and available boys from these groups have been enrolled, remaining places will be filled with boys from other recognized and accepted public agencies, (WPA, PWA, NYA, Rural Re-settlement, Poor Boards, etc.) boys receiving relief from private relief organizations, such as Red Cross, private relief societies, welfare agencies, Salvation Army, etc. Vacancies remaining, after all eligible and available boys are enrolled from the above classifications, may then be filled with boys from non-relief families. Non-relief boys will be required to show need of employment.

As the examination will be held between July 20 and July 30, Mr. Moore urges all boys desiring to make applications for enrollment in the CCC to call and make applications at once.

Caliphs Will Hold Summer Jamboree

Faithful Of Many Counties To Gather Here Friday Night July 16

In spite of the heat and the humidity, the Caliphs of Bagdad, accustomed to the sands of the desert, will hold a midsummer jamboree in the Cathedral on Friday night, July 16, it was announced today. Included in the festivities will be a parade, a session of degree work, a smoker, a lunch and a vaudeville show of six acts which is being imported for the occasion.

It has been a long time since the Caliphs threw a party. At the insistence of the brethren in many of the adjoining counties the officers have arranged the party for July 16 and the arrangement sheet shows something that will be worth the time and effort needed to attend.

Stratosphere Flights May Get Approval

Higher Altitude Flying Would Revolutionize Air Passenger Travel

EXPERIMENTS ARE QUITE SUCCESSFUL

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Early government approval of sub-stratosphere flights by commercial airlines was forecast today by bureau of air commerce officials.

Higher altitude flying, which would revolutionize air passenger travel, has been subjected to intensive studies by federal aeronautical experts for more than a year.

Information and data gathered from the bureau's investigation and from research and experiments by private aviation interests now is being assembled into preliminary report.

Has Advantages.

This report will outline the advantages of flying at altitudes of between 25,000 and 35,000 feet. At present, the bureau forbids air transport travel above 14,000 feet except in emergency.

Benefits of sub-stratosphere flights include elimination of mountain hazards which caused several of the recent series of air crashes. In addition, weather conditions are better at this height and because of the reduced air density greater flying speed may be obtained.

Bureau officials are convinced that none of the mechanical problems of airplane construction that so far have retarded low-stratosphere flying are insurmountable.

Experiments with new equipment that maintains normal air pressure within the plane have been successful, according to the bureau. Because of the extra weight of this equipment some change in airplane design will be necessary.

During the year the bureau has studied the possible psychological and physiological effects of high altitude flying on pilots and passengers.

The entire study is part of a general program to modernize federal aids to aviation which will entail expenditure of more than $7,000,000 during the next two years.

Among the projects being undertaken are an increase of the land communications facilities and completion of construction work on more than 100 new radio stations.

Of the money available, $2,000,000 has been earmarked for establishing navigation aids on new air routes created by the post office department.

Honey Now Can Be Used In Soft Drinks

New Law Permits Use Of Various Materials In Drinks Now

HARRISBURG, July 9—Governor Earle and the 1937 Legislature have revised an act of the 1925 General Assembly which made it a crime in Pennsylvania to use honey in soft drinks.

The Act of 1925 requiring the registration with the Department of Agriculture of bottlers of soft drinks or carbonated beverages stipulated that such beverages must be made with cane sugar.

Amendments just approved by Governor Earle permit the use of cane and beet sugar, honey and refined dextrose.

Other amendments require the manufacturer or bottler to place his name and address on every bottle or cap, prohibit the use of coloring matter which misleads the public, authorizes the Department of Justice to restrain by court injunction habitual offenders, and changing the penalties by making the first and second offenses summary ones punishable by fines of from $50 to $100 or by imprisonment of from 30 to 90 days and making subsequent offenses misdemeanors punishable by fines of from $500 to $1000 or by imprisonment not to exceed one year.

Trucks, Buses In Many Accidents

Sixty-seven persons were injured in these accidents, 38 being passengers, 19 pedestrians, four employes and six were occupants of other vehicles involved in the accidents. Property damage was $2,073.

Bus operators reported 357 accidents in May. One passenger was killed, as were two occupants of other vehicles. Of the 86 persons injured, 59 were passengers, 17 were occupants of other vehicles, seven were pedestrians and three were employes. The resulting property damage was $8,744.

Truckers operating under the commission's jurisdiction reported 218 accidents. One person, a pedestrian, was killed, and 15 other persons were injured. More interest in oil and gas leases seems to be manifest, seventeen more leases having been recorded in the office of Register and Recorder William R. Hanna. All of the leases are in Shenango and Slippery Rock township and are made to the Allegheny Development and Royalty Company. In turn they have been assigned to the Belmont Quadrangle Drilling Corporation.

The search for oil in this section of the county has been under way for several years. There is good oil out there but it is thought to have seeped down into the limestone crannies. One well was drilled 5200 feet and was followed by a subsurface survey. Since then several hundred leases have been taken out.

Before Judge W. Walter Braham on Thursday morning a quo warranto proceedings was heard in which the revocation of the charter of the Greek-American Club was asked. District Attorney Mont L. Ailey asked that the license be revoked on the grounds that the club had been guilty of permitting certain practices that were unlawful. Judge Braham withheld his decision.

Viewers of the county and the various railroads have viewed the territory around the new Edenburg viaduct with a view to determining damages caused by the new viaduct. A hearing will be held shortly at which time the claimants will present their claims for damages. Some properties have been damaged but it is thought that few of them will be awarded as high as the owners claim.

Clock Stops And Theatre Is Saved From Destruction

(International News Service)

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—If a clock had not stopped today, the Colonial theatre might now be a shables.

The clock was part of a time bomb, connected with eight sticks of dynamite, found in a washroom of the theatre. Set to explode at 4 a. m., the hour hand had stopped only a hair-line away from the "zero hour."

Authorities blamed labor troubles.

'TARZAN' DEFIES POLICE

BOSTON—An alarm for the fire department was put in after the police had failed to dislodge a "Tarzan" swinging from limb to limb of an elm tree here recently.

By means of an aerial ladder the firemen succeeded in rescuing a man who had leaped to the tree from an apartment house.

When he was on terra firma an empty bottle was found on his person.

FINICKY APPETITES OFTEN ONE RESULT OF CONSTIPATION

When nothing tastes right, and you don't eat as you should, the trouble may be common constipation. Poor appetite is one of its symptoms. Others are headaches, listlessness and sallow complexions.

Constipation is usually due to "low-bulk" meals. Serve your family Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a generous source of "bulk."

Within the body, this food absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently exercises and sponges out the system. How much better than taking pills and drugs!

ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to tone up the intestines, and iron for the blood. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Three times daily, in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into appetizing muffins, breads, etc.

Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

—see how light, tender, digestible

MARY'S BLUEBERRY MUFFINS
2½ cups sifted flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 cup fresh blueberries
1 egg, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
⅓ cup Spry, melted

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and sugar. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon of the flour mixture over blueberries and mix well. Combine beaten egg, milk and melted Spry. Turn liquids into dry ingredients and stir vigorously until all flour is dampened. The batter should look lumpy. (Don't overstir.) Fold blueberries carefully into mixture.

COUPLE PLANS HIKE FOR HEALTH'S SAKE

HARRISBURG—Seeing Pennsylvania will be combined with walking for health by a Pittsburgh couple who left the southwestern Pennsylvania metropolis on a Lincoln highway tour, by foot, bound for Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hartman expect to walk 20 miles a day on Route 30, stretching across the Alleghenies. Their plan calls for a stop at Gettysburg, and then to drift north from Lincoln highway to Valley Forge. In the Quaker City they will visit Independence Hall and other historic places of interest.

Motor Police Plans Ready

Reorganization Of State And Highway Police Forces Will Start

STATE POLICE UNIFORMS STAY

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 9—Organization of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, created through the merger of the Highway Patrol and State Police, along regimental lines was underway today.

Gov. George H. Earle announced he has approved organization plans for the new combined unit as submitted to him by Comissioner Percy W. Foote and his staff.

The 450 state policemen and 550 highway patrolmen will be re-organized along the following lines, expected to be completed within the next half-year:

Reorganization Lines

1.—The entire force will be organized as a regiment, to be under command of Commissioner Foote, who will receive the rank of colonel, with deputy commissioner Major Lynn G. Adams, former superintendent of State police, in second command with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

2.—Regimental staff headquarters will be placed in immediate charge of Major Cecil M. Wilhelm, former deputy superintendent of state police, who will act as chief of staff. He will retain his present rank.

3.—The state will be divided into four districts in which will be stationed a squadron divided into five troops, including a headquarters troop, with each squadron headed by a major and each troop under command of a captain or lieutenant.

4.—The state police training school will be retained in Hershey with a new course of instruction offered to acquaint the former patrolmen and state policemen with crime prevention and traffic control. A new class of 50 men is expected to be organized next month.

5.—The regimental staff headquarters will have under its direct jurisdiction the crime detection, detective and fire protection bureaus as well as the communications bureau.

Will Have 1600 Men

The new unit according to commissioner Foote will be stepped up to 1,600 men as soon as the state is financially able to do this.

Meanwhile, he said, the reorganization will be a gradual one, with only provisionary appointments to be made at present pending selection of the permanent staff through competitive examination.

Commissioner Foote disclosed he is studying the feasibility of equipping the new force with automobile cruisers, each equipped with short wave radio sets to assure fast and efficient communication. Experiments are under way, he said, to discover the possibility of installing short wave teletype machines in the cruisers so that the officers can have a "written record."

Commissioner Foote said the present state police uniforms will be used throughout with the hall helmets replaced with streamline caps for motorcycle work, which he emphasized would be reduced to a minimum. The recently acquired highway patrol uniforms will be junked at a loss to the state of some $58,000.

Retain 150 Horses

About half of the 150 state police horses will be retained for riot work, Foote added. Another new innovation being considered, he said, is the organization of a small medical unit for the regiment.

The new regimental organization will require from 25 to 40 officers. At present there are about 38 lieutenants and captains in the two units.

"It is recognized that many of the officers of the highway patrol have not had much experience in strictly police duties and vice versa," said Foote. "It is, therefore, impractical at the peresnt time to make permanent assignment of officers....The permanent assignments to these ranks and positions will be determined by competitive examinations which will be composed of two parts one of which will cover the officer's record experience and length of service, for which a definite mark will be assigned; the other part will be a written examination to cover professional and general knowledge."

Promotion lists, he said, will be set up on the basis of marks, pysical fitness will be based on non-competitive examinations.

Flying Instructor Injured In Crash

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 9—Zeki Dervend, a flying instructor at Roosevelt Field, New York, was slightly injured Thursday when his single-seater sports plane was wrecked as he attempted a take-off from the Everett airport in Bedford county. He escaped with mintr injuries.

Dervend was enroute from New York to Pittsburgh and landed at Everett for gas. After one attempt to lift the ship off the ground failed, Dervend made a second attempt which resulted in the crash.

VISITORS MUST NOT MAR WOODS

HARRISBURG—Motorists, campers and picnickers, who thoughtlessly discard paper, boxes and remnants of food in the forests, not only mar the scenery but also destroy the value of these recreational areas for future use, Secretary James F. Bogardus of the Department of Forests and Waters said today.

He urged visitors to Pennsylvania's 1,600,000 acres of woodlands to adopt rules of forest courtesy and conduct.

AROUND CITY HALL

Indications are that council will not abate the interest on liens, although council may do so legally, according to Solicitor William Cobau. In reporting on two such requests yesterday the solons voted negatively. Finance Director James L. Fink, in submitting the motion to disapprove the requests, said if council granted the requests similar action would be necessary on all such cases. He added that the city would be required to pay the interest on outstanding certificates. Mayor Charles E. McGrath expressed the opinion that if an abatement was allowed many persons would hold off payment of liens pending other possible actions by the state legislature. Councilman Joseph D. Alexander said in some ways he could see where the city would get in more money than at present, but he would be adverse to taking the interest off liens for some people and not for others.

It is not yet known how much of an advance in wages will be given by council, but it is safe to say that on Monday council will take some action in the employes favor. At least, two of the members so indicated yesterday. Judging from what was said to the writer outside regular council meeting the solons will do the best they can. Some men who draw meagre wages will receive a raise and others who want a restoration will receive at least a portion of it. When a former council cut wages during the depression the city employes did not object strongly. They accepted the situation, but when times improved and employes in other pursuits got working and their wages were advanced the city employes expressed themselves to council. The council has maintained at all times that if the money could be found the officials would go as far toward granting the request as possible.

Councilman Joseph D. Alexander was not trying to give city employes a day off every time they turn around when the holiday situation was brought up before council. Instead, he was trying to put the situation in such shape that the public, officials and workers themselves would know when city workers are off duty. No action was taken on the proposal. The writer has known times in the past when city offices closed at noon without warning to the public. And the public will agree that everyone who has an office should be there when the public wishes to transact business with the officeholder. There are no busier men that Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Councilman Joseph D. Alexander. For instance, take yesterday. Mayor McGrath arrived at his office at 9 a. m., and police matters required his attention until 10:20 a. m. He was 20 minutes late for council meeting. Council meeting lasted until 12:30 p. m. The same situation occurred Tuesday. During Thursday afternoon he was kept busy with interviews. The mayor is also required to some times work at night and does if he can further the city's ends. As for Alexander, his nose is buried in business all day long. In addition to being the head of the department of parks and buildings, he also is purchasing agent. Since the WPA-city projects got under way the purchasing phase of his job keeps him as busy as his direction over the departments.

No Fool Like An Old Fool

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 9.—On the petition of a 40-year-old daughter that Adam Horn, 69, is having a youthful, but expensive, fling with his dollars won at hard toil on his Orland farm, Horn Thursday was limited by court order to $40 a month income.

The daughter, Mrs. Ida Lillis, said her father had shaved off his moustache, had his nails manicured and was courting a girl 19 years old, on whom he spent $5,000 of his $100,000 in the last few months.

Example of human consistency: (1) "Most of the people are dumb morons." (2) "A Senator from a thinly populated State shouldn't have so much power."

REJECT PRINTING BIDS

Council met in the city building Thursday and Finance Director James L. Fink submitted a motion rejecting bids from printing concerns for the city's printing business. He explained that council felt that to discontinue the present contract would prove costly to the city and the city would lose financially by awarding a new contract. Miller, Pyle & Street has been doing the city's printing for some years.

Reading Room Is Planned For New Library Building

Cooperation Of Seventh Ward People Will Put Reading Room In Library

Realizing the need for a reading room in the new branch library building, now being constructed on Madison avenue, Miss Alice Sterling has placed the matter before the residents of the seventh ward.

In order to have a fully equipped room, Miss Sterling has suggested that it might be possible to obtain gifts of magazines from citizens who might wish to make a gift of a subscription.

Whether the magazines are given to the branch after their use by purchaser or the library is presented with a subscription, the following are suggested as desirable:

American Girl, American Home, Boys' Life, Better Homes and Gardens, Child Life, National Geographic, Life, Reader's Digest, Saint Nicholas, Time, Saturday Evening Post, Woman's Home Companion.

As plans now stand it is hoped that the new branch library on Madison avenue will be open within the next ten days. With this in view, persons wishing to cooperate in the installation of a reading room by donating discarded magazines or subscriptions, have been asked to get in touch with Miss Alice Sterling at the public library, or with the branch librarian, Miss Sarah Mervis. Miss Jane Leicht of 107 East Clayton street will also be glad to receive donated magazines for the library

S. C. W. Bible Class Breakfasts At Park Thursday Morning

Beautiful Cascade Park grove was the scene of a most successful breakfast picnic Thursday morning, when members of the S. C. W. Bible class, of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, met there.

At 8:30 o'clock, a group of 36 persons seated themselves at a long table and were served breakfast by the following committee: Mrs. L. M. Wilkinson, Mrs. H. E. Rhodes, Mrs. A. A. Maud, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. John Fisher, Mrs. J. J. Cunningham and Mrs. W. C. Patterson.

Special guests included Mrs. Elmer Meyers and granddaughter, Jane Smith, Walmo; and Mrs. Will Meyers, Ashtabula, O.

LIBERTY PARK ATTRACTIVE

City workmen daily get the praise and high esteem of the Seventh Ward residents, for their excellent care of the Liberty street park. Many attractive and well-planned flower gardens are well-arranged about the park area, and as all of the flowers are now in bloom add a lot to the district.

As concerts are held in this park, workmen find it difficult to keep the lawn in first-class condition as people persist in walking on the grass.

COMPLETE NEW GARAGE

Receiving the finishing touches this week, an attractive new automobile garage, now stands on the property of John Castrucci, 8 Cedar street.

The garage, which adjoins the Castrucci home, has been painted a steel gray, and adds a great deal to the appearance of the neighborhood in the immediate vicinity.

Society Meeting At Reichert Home

Misses Mary and Margaret Reichert, proved very pleasant and capable hostesses, Thursday evening, when members of St. Margaret's Sodality met in their Ashland avenue home, for a regular session.

Following a short business meeting which was in charge of the president, Miss Mary Roonan, the group formed a theatre party and attended one of the ward show houses.

At the close of the picture, the group returned to the Reichert home, where the two hostesses served a delicious luncheon. Next meeting will be on Friday evening, August 6, in the home of Misses Mary and Henrietta Roonan, Madison avenue.

Ward People Home From Funeral Of Drowning Victim

Locals Called Away Because Of Accidental Death Of Niece In Ohio

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Spurrier and Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Wagner and family have returned home from Pleasant City and Shawnee, O.

These two families were called away by the accidental death of the former's niece, Mrs. Rosa Butterfield, early this week. Mrs. Butterfield met death by drowning in the Muskingum river at McConnellsville, O. The local people remained at the late home until after the funeral.

Look-Out Class Picnic At Park Well Attended

Gathering in Cascade Park for their last meeting of the season, 40 members of the Look-Out class of the Mahoning Methodist church, and their families, enjoyed a most successful picnic, Thursday.

Following the serving of a delicious picnic dinner, bingo playing was enjoyed. Numerous small prizes were awarded to the winners of the games.

At the close of the bingo playing, the group adjourned to the upper portion of the park, where the various diversions there were enjoyed. The inspiring and well-played music of the WPA orchestra, which was giving a concert from the bandstand in the park was the next spot to which the Look-Out folks turned their attention.

Those on the dinner committee included: Mrs. Ann Johnson, Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Mrs. James Westman, Mrs. William King, Mrs. Sherman Weaver, and Mrs. Fred Gibson. Entertainment committee included: Mrs. Robert Stewart and Mrs. Clair Gorley.

One special guest, Harold Wilson, enjoyed the hospitality of the club. Meetings of this group have all been canceled until fall.

BANDSTAND NEWLY PAINTED

Workmen have been engaged in repainting the bandstand in the Libery street park. Although the task is not yet completed, paint is on the front and top portions of the stand, and make it look very attractive.

It is hoped that the painting task will be completed in time for the WPA concert on Tuesday evening, July 13.

Hunt Landmark Of War Of 1812

Search For "Jacob's Well" Has Gone On For 50 Years

(International News Service)

MARION, O., July .—Man hunts come and man hunts go, but the hunt for "Jacob's Well," historical spot of the War of 1812, has all the possibilities of going on forever.

For 50 years the landmark has been sought to no avail by the Daughters of the American Revolution. They desire to place a marker at the approximate location.

Leading the latest search is Ernest H. Wideman, employe of the county recorder's office. He saw a legal paper about six years ago containing mention of the location of the well. The paper since has disappeared, but is believed somewhere in the city.

Origin Of Well

Origin of the well, likewise, is a matter of conjecture. Most credible is the story that it was dug by a soldier in the army of Gen. William Henry Harrison when the army passed through here in November, 1812.

The soldier's first name was Jacob, and it is believed his last name was Foos. Thirsty, he began to dig in the ground in the hope of reaching water. To the amazement of himself and companions water appeared when he had dug four feet.

Mae West Goes Into Seclusion

Her Admitted Husband May Be Entitled To Part Of Her Fortune

DEPOSITION IS NOW DEMANDED

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—With Mae West "in seclusion" after her breathless admission of marriage, her attorney was called to court here today to argue against the taking of a deposition from the film star.

The deposition is being asked by attorneys for Frank Wallace, New York vaudeville actor, whom Miss West admitted marrying 26 years ago.

At the same time Wallace's local attorney, Avery M. Blount, indicated today the actor may seek an accounting of Miss West's earnings, said to be between $200,000 and $300,000 yearly.

If the marriage can be proved valid, attorneys claimed Wallace may be entitled to half of the film star's fortune—since her earnings under California law would be community property.

Miss West, however, claims to be a "kissless bride" and also charges Wallace married another woman after he married her.

After Long informally denying she was wed, Miss West admitted marrying Wallace in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1911. The admission came as an answer to a suit filed by Wallace in which he asked the court to rule on the validity of the marriage.

Since the actress, in her answer, claimed that she and Wallace "never lived together as man and wife," and Wallace, in his suit claimed that they did, his attorneys have demanded the deposition "to clear up this point."

News Briefs From City Hall

City detective bureau in the city building annex is being "dolled up" by WPA employes.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath said today the state had sent to the city $242.00 for work done by the dog catcher. Whenever the official kills a dog he sends the ears to a state bureau and the money is sent to the city. The dog catcher receives none of this money. He is paid $15.00 a week by the city.

Residents of North Cedar street reported to police yesterday that a beer truck speeded through the thoroughfare.

When a wheel came off an auto in Long avenue it broke the window of the state liquor store, according to a report made to police last night.

Councilman James L. Fink paid a visit to Cascade Park yesterday. He said the Billy Glenn bathing pool resembled a bee hive, it was so crowded.

In Russo-Jap Crisis Spotlight

Heat Wave No Worry To 56 Boys At Camp Rentz

'Tis hot, you're right—but out at Camp Fred L. Rentz of the New Castle Y. M. C. A. today there weren't any loud objections.

With 26 acres of ideal camp scenery, with a cool river swimming pool, with the most modern of camp buildings, with the most carefully developed tennis court and athletic field, with bunks that sink like feather ticks of old, with food fit for kings or presidents, with an atmosphere wholesome and fine—and with other things—why should there be?

Why object? Why think harshly of the weatherman under those conditions even if he runs the red line in thermometer past 90? Why kick?

That's just it, no one is—they're just laughing off this heat wave.

A reporter dropped in at the improved camp grounds yesterday to find a group of the 56 registered young campers working out in mushball. Others were boating. Some were doing special handicraft work. Some were reading.

General Secretary R. L. Meermans was with us and Henry T. MacNicholas, the camp's chief director, met us inside the gate. The eight counselors, capable and courteous, were busy.

Camp Rentz, growing like few other camps are today, merits its reputation as one of the finest the Western Pennsylvania area now boasts.

Gifts from private individuals made possible the camp and more gifts from private friends has expanded it. Other gifts, no doubt, will improve it even more in summers to come.

Major additions this year are topped off by the Treadwell-Ray recreation hall, not far from the administration building, where Director MacNicholas, glancing out a window, can survey activities all over the grounds.

Of the eight cabins, the Fred L. Rentz cabin boys won the "high honor inspection" pennant in yesterday morning's check-up with an unusually high percentage of 98 points. The Y Directors cabin also scored that same percentage, however, and was to fly the pennant later in the day.

Cleanliness is never forgotten by the campers and seldom do any of the cabins fall below the minimum rating of 85 percent twice in succession to qualify its personnel for that ever-attractive job that camping always provides on occasion—duty as "kitchen police."

You should see Camp Rentz this year—and it's just 11 miles out the Harlansburg road along the winding Slippery Rock creek.

West Side Lads Laugh At Heat

Wading Pool At Playground Gives Relief In Torrid Wave

Ask any youngster in the West Side district his favorite spot during these warm days and the answer you'll receive will be something like this: "The wading pool at West Side playground."

Located amid a profusion of trees and grass, behind the fire station on Smithfield street, the pool is absolutely the "nuts" as far as the kiddies are concerned. From early morn until late at night, the pool draws all the play. While most of the downtown residents are suffering from the sweltering heat, the West Side lads and lassies are as cool and as comfortable as could be.

Take yesterday for instance, the pool was filled to capacity with waders. 'Tis rumored that even grownups sneak in for a cooling off when no one's looking.

Anyhow, its really a treat to watch the kiddies enjoy the cool refreshing waters of this small pool.

TWO ARE HELD FOR SEPTEMBER COURT

Alderman Wallace J. Ewing had held Charles Hunter and Margaret Lewis, East Washington street, for the September court on charges of possessing and selling obscene literature and obscene images and figures placed against them by the Rev. Mary Ellis, of Philadelphia. They posted $50 for their relase.

The case was heard last week.

It is easy to figure the right State tax on a business. Just soak it the maximum sum that is less than the cost of moving to another State.

The country has improved in one way. Fewer people now feel inferior to jeer at those who take a bath every day.

Movie Star's Elbows Are Criticized

Elbows Are Neglected In Movie Star's Care For Body Appearance

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—Completing a visit to movieland, where she met many of the most beautiful of the screen stars, Mme. Eloise Brunton, noted cosmetologist, has left behind one comment not completely flattering.

Never has she seen more beautiful skin, lovely hair, well-kept hands, and pearly teeth.

But, she says, her hands in mock horror, what elbows!

Because, she added, elbows are the most abused and neglected of all potential femine attractions.

"Leaning one's elbows on a table was originally forbidden in good society, not entirely as a matter of etiquette" Mme. Brunton said. "It was because our grandmothers knew that hardened skin and wrinkled elbows would result.

Overcome Fault

"I know of only one professional woman who gave enough thought to this matter. She was Alice Gentle, the famous opera singer. Miss Gentle conceived of using a large sponge rubber, slightly indented. Into this she poured a liquified cold cream. She placed this on a low table and massaged her elbow on it by working her arm around in the cream."

It would appear that some special care of elbows is necessary now that even Emily Post sanctions leaning elbows on a table when lunching or dining with a small group. And there is another consideration just as vital, according to Hollywood's style experts.

Fashion has decreed that elbows will be very much in evidence this season. The new square sleeves taper to a stop well above the elbow.

There are at least two famous movie stars, Kay Francis and Bette Davis, who are said to give definite attention to the appearance of their elbows.

Olive Oil Used

Miss Francis, who with Carole Lombard, is regarded as one of Hollywood's best dressed women, uses a small dish. Twice a week she fills this with olive oil and immerses each elbow for a ten minute bath.

Resulting from a habit she has had from childhood, Miss Davis has a much simpler method. She likes to lie in bed, on her stomach, propped up on her elbows, and read. She merely rests her elbows on a heavy towel soaked in hot Eucaluptus oil.

In a recent discussion, Glenda Farrell told of a beautiful woman, strikingly gowned whom she had seen at one of the prominent night clubs. Everyone turned to look at ly her. Glenda said, but she personally had one terrible disillusionment. The woman's elbows were rough, red and wrinkled.

It gave Glenda such a shock she bleaches her own elbows at least twice a week with lemons.

One important point in cooking spinach is not to overcook it. The leaves should be tender and the color a bright green. Over-cooking is usually the cause of dark, unattractive spinach.

COLUMBUS, O., July 9.—Counsel for the state lost a round in the Federal court suit of the CIO to restrict authority of national guard troops in the steel strike zone when Judge Xenophon Hicks, Knoxville, Tenn., ruled today that the suit shall be heard by District Judge Mell G. Underwood and not a three-judge court.

Kean Donnelly Favored To Win

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., July 9.—Sixteen of the 64 golfers who started out in the state amateur golf championship tourney trickled out over the Lancaster Country Club course today for the second day's round of heat-handicapped match play.

Out of the contest with 47 other amateurs from all parts of the state was Toby Lyons, Cambridge Springs, the defending champion. Lyons bowed to Earl Baruch, Philadelphia, who with Kean Donnelly, another Philadelphian, was given an edge in the now wide open tournament.

Donnelly pulled himself to the fore in the first two rounds of play by defeating S. D. Herron, Pittsburgh, and Max Marsten, Philedalphia, both one-time state and national amateur titleholders.

SALAMANCA, Spain, July 9.—Further insurgent successes on the Madrid, Biscay and Aragon fronts were claimed today in an official rebel communique.

a major purpose of the bill is to "change the philosophy" of the supreme court.

Logan made this admission repeatedly, as opposition questioners emphasized it time and again. On one occasion, Senator Tydings (D) of Maryland, asked him:

"Is it not a fact that the underlying purpose of this substitute is to secure a new philosophy of judicial interpretation from the supreme court?"

"It is the hope that it may be done," replied Logan.

"That is the aim, is it not?" Tydings pressed.

"That is the hope, it may be done, but not through packing the court," replied Logan, "but through the reconsideration of those important questions where apparently some of the members of the court have reached the state where they cannot consider them fairly and impartially."

Opposition leaders hailed this as a victory, since their chief attack on the bill is the contention it would "pack the court" in order to "change its decisions."

The senate seldom has seen so hectic a session as yesterday when administration leaders invoked every technical rule of parliamentary law against the opposition. The latter complained that proponents of the bill have held the floor exclusively for the three days and that no technicalities should be invoked until evidence of a filibuster.

Seeks Data On "Gravel Scandal"

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., July 9—District Attorney Mortimer E. Graham of Erie county today was awaiting a reply to his request to Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti for all data the commonwealth has in the so-called highway department "gravel scandal."

Graham said he made his request with a statement explaining he wished to determine whether any crime was committed in Erie county. If he finds there were violations, Graham plans to petition the court for a formal grand jury investigation.

Several dismissals and transfers resulted from charges the commonwealth accepted gravel of an inferior quality for road work in Erie county.

French New Deal Costs Huge Sum

Reforms Introduced By Popular Front Government Result In Deficit

FIVE BILLIONS IS ANNUAL COST

By MICHAEL WILSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, July 9.—With a new government "of reformation" in power and Leon Blum shuttled to the relatively unimportant position of vice-premier and minister of state, France is figuratively licking its wounds and "stock-taking".

In one year and 16 days of almost untrammeled power over 42 million persons in France and 78 millions in French possessions, the Popular Front government has cost 110 billion francs.

Statisticians estimate that the Blum experiment increased the annual budget deficit by approximately 40 billion francs; increased the railroad deficit by 3½ billion; increased the commercial balance deficit by 15 billions; decreased gold reserves by 17 billion and borrowed 34 billion francs at home and abroad

Nearly $5,(0,000,000.

This totals almost five billion American dollars, and is more than the cost of reconstructing the regions devastated during the World war, according to calculators.

On the credit side of the statisticians' "indictment" are improved social conditions; mostly a 40-hour week, increased wages, paid vacations and working contracts.

Salaries have increased approximately 15 per cent but the cost of living has risen 20 per cent, according to comparative tables.

Blum Used As "Front"

Even enemies of the Popular Front admit that idealist Blum never put into effect his rather mild socialist theories but instead was used as a "front" for his hard-headed extremist supporters.

Although, in departing, the Popular Front government left the country in a state bordering on complete chaos, and rightists claimed the "Blum experiment" a failure, the "forgotten man" has been given social benefits that no future government, whether of left or right, will dare to modify, impartial observors see.

Unity of labor has been achieved and the C. G. T.—France's C. I. O.—has become extremely powerful with a membership role of almost five million persons. Harmony between the C. G. T. and the employers was one of the goals Blum sought and will continue to seek in the Chautemps cabinet, according to political circles.

Increased War Budget

Paradoxically, during his term of office, Leon Blum, an ardent anti-militarist before he took the premiership, not only did not reduce the war budgets but increased their credits. He even augmented the Mobile Guard—state security police—by one-fourth.

However, Blum did succeed in improving the soldiers' conditions; more pay, more food and better barracks.

Rightists are crowing "Blum failed; the Popular Front collapsed," but old politicians in the Chamber of Deputies and the senate see Blum's government as but one of many leftist governments and predict Camille Chautemps "reformation" government will consolidate social advantages while refusing additional expenditure.

"Blum was too weak and was dominated by the extremist elements," is the general opinion.

Gasoline Tax Revenue Rises

Receipts From Liquid Fuels Tax Show Marked Increase

HARRISBURG.—Receipts from the Liquid Fuels tax were 13 per cent. greater during the fiscal year ending May 31 than during the preceding year, Secretary of Revenue John B. Kelly said today.

During the past year 1,360,483,804 gallons of gasoline were reported for taxation against 1,214,444,671 gallons during the preceding year. This is an increase of 146,039,133 gallons.

Total receipts from the gasoline tax after making the deductions allowed distributors for collection were $53,347,034.13. This included receipts of $40,210,192.00 from the normal 3-cent gasoline tax which is paid into the Motor Fund as well as the sum of $13,136,842.13 representing the proceeds from the special 1-cent emergency tax collected for unemployment relief.

Amusement Tax To Expire Soon

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Two emergency state taxes have expired in the past two weeks and a third will be discontinued on July 22, Secretary of Revenue John B. Kelly announced today.

The four per cent distillers tax was discontinued on May 31 and the documentary stamp tax expired on June 15. On July 22 the state amusement tax will be discontinued.

The distillers tax has already netted the state treasury $1,335,430, the documentary stamp tax resulted in payments of $851,641 and the amusement tax payments totalled $6,480,723.

Other taxes in the group enacted for relief purposes by the General Assembly during the regular session of 1935 and the special session of 1936 and re-enacted at the recent session were the gross receipts tax, capital stock tax, the domestic and foreign loans taxes, the corporate net income tax (with tax rate set at 7 per cent instead of 10 per cent), the special one cent gasoline tax, the state four mill personal property tax, the shares tax and the 10 per cent liquor sales tax.

Funny man! He hates any tax he must pay, but he thinks he'd be glad to pay a bigger one if he had a bigger income.

Will Spend Much To Boost State

Half Million Dollars Allocated For Advertising State's Attractions

STUDY METHODS TO BRING TOURISTS

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Pennsylvania will sponsor the biggest program of publicity to attract tourists ever attempted by any of the United States. The recent Legislature appropriated $500,000 to the Pennsylvania State Publicity Commission for advertising purposes during the period from June 1, 1937 to June 1, 1939.

Although no definite budget has been officially approved it is certain that a large portion of this sum will be spent on newspaper and magazine advertising. Periodicals with a nation-wide circulation will probably be used quite extensively in broadcasting the message that "Pennsylvania has Everything" The facilities of radio broadcasting will also receive attention. Maps and booklets carrying information tourists want and depicting the scenic and historic importance of the Keystone State will be distributed throughout every State in the nation, Canada and elsewhere.

It is also probable that information booths will be established at the entrance points of the major highways. In states where such booths are in existence the traveling motorists can secure all kinds of information concerning attractions, hotels, cabins, detours, etc., and State and community literature is made available.

Scout Jamboree To End Today

Meeting Of 25,000 Scouts From All Parts Of World Has Been Big Success

WASHINGTON, July 9—The first national jamboree of the Boly Scouts of America breaks camp this afternoon, declared a success from every angle.

Staging their final arena pageant "The Calvacade of Scouting" before a huge throng last night after being reviewed by President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the 25,000 American and foreign scouts will start for home this afternoon.

Special arrangments were made with the railroads to expedite the exodus of the huge throng of boys who have held sway over the capital for the last ten days.

Monday Jamboree city, covering a tract of 350 acres of park land in the vicinity of the Washington monument along the Potomac river, will be invaded by 200 workmen. They will dismantle the tent city with its lighting, plumbing and grandstand facilities, as systematically as they had erected it.

DRUNKENNESS EXPENSIVE

(International News Service)

AKRON, O.—It will cost you $50 if you are found drunk here, even thought you are not disorderly, if a bill introduced by Assistant Law director Al H. Johnson becomes law.

Under present ordinances, drunkenness must be accompanied by disturbances of the peace or some other misdemeanor before it is punishable by a fine.

Johnson's measure now under advisement before the city council welfare committee, would make even peaceable drunkenness an offense with a $50 fine.

POSSIBLE ARMY COAST BASE

LEWES, Del.—This ancient town of fewer than 2,000 inhabitants, at the entrance of Delaware Bay, may be chosen by War Department officials as the site of a new Army coast defense unit, the 361st Coast Artillery.

Lewis, whose military importance was recognized during the Revolution War of 1812 and the World War, is under consideration as result of a visit of a group of Army officers who came to inspect sites. The group is expected to return soon to delve further into the matter.

Chinese Refuse To Take Blame

England Has Love Schools

Institutions Are Established To Promote Happier Marriages

SCHOLARS ARE YOUNG COUPLES

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON—Two "schools for lovers"—aimed at preventing unhappy marriages by teaching young men and women the right attitude toward sex and how to choose their mates and rear children—have been established in Warwickshire and Leicestershire.

To the "scholars" young couples planning to wed, of the "school" at Handsworth, near Birmingham, Warwickshire frank talks on sex are given by Bishop James H. Linton, the local rector.

He has thirty pupils, who meet for weekly lectures in the comfortable rooms of the rectory, and the Bishop is helped by his assistant clergy and some of the older married people of his congregation.

Sexes Are Separted

"When sex is the talk for the night" Bishop Linton said "the girls are separated from the boys and chat with married women in a room apart.

"Meanwhile the young men are in another room talking things over with married men of the congregation."

The idea came to the bishop himself a family man of fifty-eight with four children when he asked a prospective bride and groom: "Why do you want to be married in a church?"

That led to informal talks which the lovers' headmaster added, "caught on."

"I have been astonished by the ignorance concerning marriage, ignorance which leads to wrecked lives and homes," he added.

The other "school" has been set up at Leicester, where the city's Health Association has introduced a "Right Marriage Scheme," into its program.

Lectures are given by the Association on the choice of a mate, the best age to marry, the use of an income and how to rear children.

Young men are advised that the best age for them to marry is between twenty-three and twenty-six. The best age for women is twenty-four—because this is considered the most suitable age for child-bearing.

In choosing a mate, a man is advised to look for a girl who is prepared to regard marriage as a science, especially in catering for the home.

English Youth Also Makes 'Boners'

Prize Definitions Are Made By English School Children

(International News Service)

LONDON—A list of educational "boners" made by English school children and published here today shows that one youth believed that Tarzan was a short name for the American flag.

Requested to identify the jungle figure, the child wrote:

"A short name for the American flag. The full name is Tarzan Stripes."

Other "boners", usually made by eleven-year-olds, were:

Former Atheist Is Preaching At Outdoor Pavilion

Rev. Martin S. Charles Giving Nightly Messages At Calvary Tabernacle

REV. M. S. CHARLES

It is quite evident at the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle that whatever the weather, rain or shine, hot or cold, there are many who are determined not to miss the inspiring messages that are being given by the conference speakers.

Last night at the East Side pavilion Rev. Martin S. Charles, of California, former atheist, spoke to a large crowd, taking as his subject, "The World Conspiracy Against God."

Special music was beautifully presented by the Tanner sisters.

Mr. Charles has announced that his sermon subject for this evening at the pavilion will be "How Infidels and Atheists Get That Way."

Selections this evening will be offered by the Joybells trio. There will be no service Saturday evening but the evangelist will be heard three times Sunday.

Italian Smugglers Hide Certificates Inside Chickens

(International News Service)

MILAN—Stocks, preferred and common, were recently found in the stomachs of chickens which Milan housewives had bought with no intention of "playing the market."

Smugglers recently hit upon the idea of hiding stocks marketable abroad in the insides of poultry believing the Italian Border Police would not examine the poultry too closely.

At Chiasso, on the Italo-Swiss border, police suspecting Francesco Vigano, self-style poultry dealer, carefully examined a carload of fowl he had with him. Investigation brought to light Edison stocks worth 40,000 Liras.

Other "chicken exporters" fearing arrest, threw their baskets of poultry by the wayside and fled.

Peasants passing saw the chickens and brought them to Milan where they sold them.

Upon preparing the birds for cooking the housewives discovered their "prizes" and advised the police.

Several Hundred Blast Victims In Munitions Plant

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9.—A series of devastating explosions killed several hundred persons in a munitions plant at Sveaborg, near the entrance to the harbor of Belsinki, Finland, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Helsinki today.

The blasts followed a fire in a laboratory where hand grenades were being filled, the dispatch said.

The flames spread to a magazine where thousands of grenades were stored, precipitating a series of violent explosions.

Scores of persons in the neighborhood jumped into the water and swam for their lives as the fire spread. The concussions broke thousands of windows and were felt as far away as Helsinki.

General Gouraud Retires After 50 Years Of Service

French General Henri Gourand Retires From Army After Long Service

(International News Service)

PARIS.—General Henri Gouraud, one-armed war-hero, Governor-General of Paris and, to Americans, probably France's best-known and best-beloved soldier, has retired.

After fifty years of service, during which he fought side by side with the British at the Dardanelles and with the Americans in Champagne, he has withdrawn to his quiet home on the outskirts of Paris.

So far no successor has been named to his post. It is expected however, that either General Garchery, Military Governor of Lyons or General Bilotte, a member of the Supreme Military Council will be appointed shortly.

With his long, luxuriant beard, his empty sleeve and the row of bright colored decorations across his tunic Gouraud for years has been one of the most picturesque figures of France.

Americans knew him first when he visited the United States with Marshall Joffre's military mission and later when he returned, as Military Governor of Paris on a good will tour, for receptions and fetes given by his former comrades in arms.

In later years as Paris's chief soldier General Gouraud has shared with the American Legion and the American Embassy the annual Armistice Day exercises at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, under the Arc de Triomphe.

A true Parisian, General Gouraud was born in this city seventy years ago, and was a General of Division when the World War broke out.

At the Dardanelles he lost his arm and received wounds in the legs that made his gait uncertain in after years.

In 1918, in July, General Gouraud was the commander of the French forces which opposed the Germans in the Champagne and stopped the last desperate German advance. His maneuver laid the basis for the American drive in the same sector and in the Argonne, which brought the war to an end.

U. S. NOW EXPORTS BERMUDA ONIONS

(International News Service)

AMHERST, Mass.—America is now exporting Bermuda onions instead of importing them.

Principal foreign markets for American onions of all types are in the western hemisphere, Cuba, Panama, Latin America and the West Indies, according to Ellsworth W. Bell, extension economist at Massachusetts State college. They take more than half the exportations. Canada has recently entered the market as a large buyer and during 1936 Great Britain purchased onions in this country.

In 1930, America imported 480,000 bushels and exported 525,000. Last year, only 50,000 bushels were imported and 785,000 bushels were exported.

We are making progress. In the old days it was naughty to keep on having friends after you got married.

Jamboree Scouts Are Reviewed By Chief Executive

New Castle Troop Takes Part In Section Campfire Ceremony At Camp

HIGH TEMPERATURES ARE BEING RECORDED

By ROGER H. HAWK
(Special News Correspondent with Jamboree Troop)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—Wednesday afternoon free time was given all Scouts and they went to different points of interest in and about Washington. Wednesday evening section S, region 3, which is the group to which the local troop belongs, held a campfire ceremony. All of the bands from region three attended and held a concert. A group of Scouts from Poland were escorted into the center of the camp by a group of "honor guard" Scouts.

They were heartily welcomed upon entering the camp. A contest in fire-building was held, with the winner being awarded the privilege of lighting the evening campfire.

Patrol stunts were presented for a while, and at an opportune time a car approached carrying "Uncle" Danny Beard, chief Scout executive, who presented 10 boys with the Eagle Scout badge, highest award in scouting.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Shoaff and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Moore were present at the ceremony.

Thursday's Program

Thursday morning dawned very bright and all of the Scouts were awake early to prepare for the grand review to be held at 10:30 o'clock. At 9:30 o'clock the temperature at the camp had reached 90 degrees in the shade. At 10 o'clock, after one-half hour marching, the troop arrived at the corner of Third and Constitution avenues, where we formed in lines of eight deep.

At this place we awaited the arrival of President Roosevelt and other high officials of scouting. Franklin D. Roosevelt is honorary president of the scouting organization, and he passed in review before all the assembled Scouts.

Following the review we returned to camp at noon, where the temperature registered 102 degrees. None of the Scouts have yet suffered from the heat. Most of the local troop go to the theaters in the afternoon to escape the heat.

Thursday evening the local troop from Lawrence county added another show on scouting in the big Jamboree Land Arena.

Plan National Park In Boulder Dam Environs

Government May Erect Huge Amusement Park Around Boulder Dam Area

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—Projected plans for the national park and recreation area surrounding Boulder dam as disclosed here, indicated the area may soon become a mecca for vacationists when federal work is completed.

The gigantic park project will be accessible to travel by foot, horseback, boat, automobile and airplane. Visitors will be assured enough diversion to permit enjoyment of a month's visit, officials said.

When governmental construction is well under way, federal agencies expect private companies will exploit the tourist possibilities of the area with dude ranches and resort hotels.

"Within a few years," the park service reported, "there may be floating swimming barges, bathing beeches, desert gardens, tennis courts, swimming pools, boat excursions into the lower Grand Canyon, game fishing and regular amphibian plane flights from the Pacific to Lake Mead."

The park service explained, however, that no construction would be permitted that interfered with the natural beauty of the district.

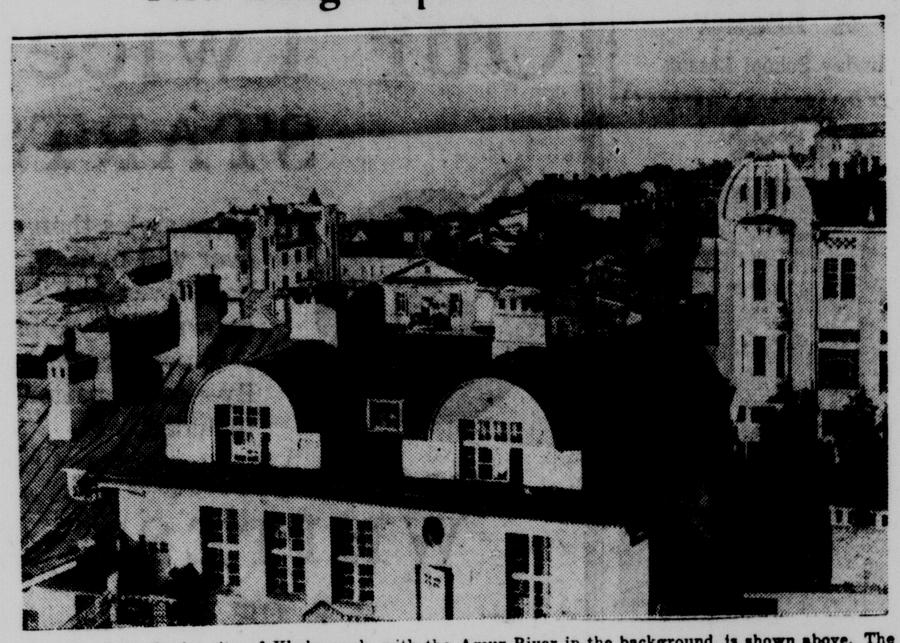
New Danger Spot of the Far East



A view of the Soviet city of Khabarovsk, with the Amur River in the background, is shown above. The river separates Soviet Russia from Manchukuo, and has become one of the danger spots of the world since the Japanese army reported that its artillery had sunk one Russian warship, disabled another, and forced a third to flee. Japan has since demanded that Russia withdraw her armed forces from the territories claimed by Manchukuo. (Central Press)

Heat Fails To Bother Campers At Scout Camp

Craft Work Proves To Be High Ranking Activity At Camp John Phillips

(Special To The News)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 9.—While the cities swelter, scouts at the Lawrence County Boy Scout Camp John M. Phillips, along the Slippery Rock creek, read the temperature reports and laugh.

Two swimming and two boating periods in the swiftly flowing water of the Slippery Rock each day keeps the matter of heat from the minds of the scouts and scouters.

An interesting program featured the hours Thursday evening as the scouts performed around an open campfire in the Camphitheater at the camp. Featured on the program was a little stunt by the officers.

A new system is to be installed at the camp at the opening of the next period. This will be the point system, and is an individual record of achievement wherein campers receive points for progress in all parts of the camp program.

Those campers receiving the greatest number of points at the end of a period will receive a suitable camp emblem. This new system was suggested by Nick Casillo, camp director, and the entire staff is now engaged in an effort to equalize the point awards in all the various parts of the camping program.

The craft shop at Camp Phillips has been one of the most popular places since the camp first opened. A number of the boys have made some very attractive watch fobs and rings from beads. Several of the lads are working on moccasins. There is hardly an hour of the day that three or four scouts will not be found hard at work around the big craft bench. The entire craft shop is in charge of Harvey Miller, crafts director.

STEEL WORKER'S WIFE SAYS VENDOL RELIEVED BACKACHE

Suffered Long Time, Tried Most Everything But Got No Better. Now Declares This Amazing Formula Proved Wonderful.

MRS. H. J. MacDONALD

Since the famous medicine Vendol was introduced in this city by the Vendol Man, any number of men and women, after taking it, have come back to see them at New Castle Drug Co., and related how it has helped them. Many give statements describing their relief with permission to publish their words. Such was the case of Mrs. H. J. MacDonald of 174 Garfield St., Youngstown, Ohio, whose husband is a well known employee at Republic Steel, who says:

"I had not been so well for some time and suffered terribly from pains in my arms and limbs and my back ached something awful. My nerves seemed to go to pieces so easily and I couldn't stand much noise. My head ached nearly every day when I stooped over the blood rushed to my head and made me feel faint and giddy.

"My stomach was upset and after meals would turn sour and gas would bloat me up often causing palpitation and heartburn. I'd often belch up a hot, sour burning liquid. I was constipated all the time.

"Vendol acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys and relieved my constipation, then I improved steadily till all the other troubles disappeared. Now, I never have a backache nor any pains in my arms, neck, shoulders or limbs. The indigestion was relieved so that I never have sour stomach, gas or bloating and my nerves have calmed down and my sleep is sound and restful.

"It was a lucky day for me when I read about Vendol because I got some at once and now I feel like a different person."

If you suffer like this, let the good old roots, herbs and valuable Alkalines in Vendol help you the same way. Don't put it off, get Vendol today.

Learn all the plain, truthful facts about this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine. Come to New Castle Drug Co., 35 E. Washington St., ask for me, the Vendol Man. I am here every day and will explain how Vendol will help you. It is also sold by New Castle Drug Co., at 24 N. Mill St., and by all other leading druggists in this city and nearby towns.

Civil Rights Bureau Opens At Harrisburg

Newly Created State Bureau Will Have Two Big Tasks To Perform

NO LEGAL POWERS GIVEN TO BUREAU

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Special Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 9—The Earle administration Thursday reached out to help assure the "forgotten man" in Pennsylvania of his civil rights and liberties.

Offices are being established on Capitol Hill for the new bureau of civil rights and publications, created by the 132nd Legislature, which will embark the state administration in still another social experiment.

Placed under the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the new bureau is headed by John Sullivan, former member of Gov. George H. Earle's secretariat.

Have Two Tasks

The bureau will have two tasks: (1) To aid Pennsylvania citizens who advertantly or otherwise have been denied the rights granted them under the state constitution and statutes, and (2) to disseminate information concerning the commonwealth's various governmental activities.

The bureau, which will work in close cooperation with the attorney general's office, will have no legal powers, as such, but rather, will act in an advisory capacity.

"If a citizen believes his rights have been infringed upon and will notify us to that effect we will refer him immediately to a legal aid or civil rights organization in his community," Sullivan told International News Service.

Will Get Attention

"However, if the case is such that it appears the commonwealth's action is necessary, it will be turned over to the attorney general's office for action."

Sullivan disclosed he will shortly prepare a short booklet to be distributed throughout the commonwealth outlining what civil rights and liberties citizens enjoy. He has enlisted the aid of several legislators interested in that work and said a deputy in the attorney general's office will be assigned to his bureau.

He further disclosed he intended to contact all local agencies with whom he can cooperate and will draw up a permanent list of them for public reference.

Sullivan In Charge

Sullivan, a former newspaperman who, still in his twenties, is publishing a Sunday newspaper in Harrisburg, recently conferred with U. S. Sen. Robert LaFollette, of Wisconsin, chairman of the senate civil liberties committee and said he intended to confer with him again to outline possible courses of action by the new bureau.

The bureau has a $17,000 appropriation for the next two years.

More Soviet Spies Slain

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9.—Execution of 64 additional spies in Siberia was reported in an unconfirmed Reuter dispatch from Moscow.

It was stated that those executed had been convicted of espionage and sabotage on the far-eastern railway.

Correct This Sentence: "I have chosen mediators," said the governor, "who are without prejudice."

God Provides A Leader

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Exodus 3:10—"Come now therefore, and I will send thee."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 11 is Exodus 2:1-22; 3:1-12, especially 3:1-12, the Golden Text being Exodus 3:10, "Come, now, therefore, and I will send thee.")

THAT "LOVE will find a way" is particularly true if it is mother love mingled with faith. When Moses' mother looked upon her child whom Pharaoh's bloody edict demanded should be destroyed, he seemed to her to be "fair unto God", as Acts 7:20 expresses it, and, seeing the image of God in her child, she prayerfully prepared an ark of papyrus, made waterproof, in which to hide him by the brink of the Nile. "By faith Moses, when he was born, was hid three months by his parents, because they saw he was a goodly child; and they were not afraid of the king's commandment."

A Mother's Training

Miriam, the baby's fifteen-year-old sister, who was guarding the precious basket in the bulrushes when it was discovered by Pharaoh's daughter, cleverly suggested securing a "nurse of the Hebrew women", and then rushed home to bring the baby's own mother. So well did Moses' mother nurse her child, giving him with his mother's milk, his mother's faith and patriotic hope for God's people Israel, that she made it impossible for her son ever to become an Egyptian at heart or to forget his mother's people or his mother's God, though he was "instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians". "By faith Moses, when he was grown up, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to be evil entreated with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season, accounting the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt, for he endured as seeing him who is invisible" (Heb. 11:23-26).

Moses' Further Preparation

Moses' rash action in killing an Egyptian whom he found smiting one of his brethren revealed not only his unpreparedness to deliver God's people, but also the unpreparedness of the Israelites for that deliverance. So Moses fled from Egypt to the land of Midian in the Sinaitic peninsula, where he was to spend the next forty years as a shepherd in the very region through which, at the close of this period, he is to lead the Israelites. The quiet meditative life of a shepherd will afford him time to commune with God over his people's troubles and how to do something about it that will be more in accord with God's will and plan than Moses' first effort at emancipation.

God Calls Moses

God always prepares his man for every emergency and knows where to find him when needed. So he appeared to Moses shepherding his flock in the wilderness and called him to shepherd His people. His forty years in the court of Pharaoh and now his forty years in the wilderness of Sinai have prepared him for the work. So God speaks to Moses from the burning bush: "I have surely seen the affliction of my people . . . and have heard their cry . . . for I know their sorrows; and I am come down to deliver them." But God needs a human agent through whom he can work. "Come now, therefore, and I will send three unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people out of Israel." Had Moses remembered that God was to do the work through him as a tool he would not have replied, "Who am I that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt."

Our capital I must never obscure God!

Correct this sentence: "I prove my love for the oppressed," said the radical publicist, "by giving them most of my earnings."

Whatever the schools may teach, experience shows that the definition of economic justice changes to match the bankroll.

Labor Board Is In Background

LaFollette Probe Puts Wagner Labor Relations Board In Obscurity

LABOR RIOT FILM BROUGHT TO FORE

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—As an inquisitorial body Senator Robert M. La Follette's civil liberties investigating committee is so far superior to the Wagner labor relations board that the latter does not appear to amount to much.

A spectacular investigator has to have a flair for his job and Senator La Follette pre-eminently has got it.

The labor relations outfit evidently hasn't. It suffers from the judicial complex. A board of three, with two Smiths on it, is at a disadvantage anyway. Chairman J. Warren Madden's name is all right if J. Warren had a rip-snorting personality, like "young Bob" La Follette's, to go with his monicker. If he has, however, he has failed to reveal it yet. As for his associates?—E. S. and D. W. Smith. They need personality-plus to make their cognomens stand out in the headlines. And they show no signs of possessing it. An occasional Smith, such as Al, overcomes his name's handicap, but that is an exception. These two labor board Smiths do not even indicate a desire to advertise. They are downright reticent, as is Chairman Madden.

SHUNS PUBLICITY

In point is the labor board's failure to capitalize those movies of the Chicago "labor uprising" or "riot", or "police massacre", or whatever it was.

A board with any sense of publicity should have grabbed at that thing like a drowning man at a life preserver. But no, the board never peeped on the subjebt. But Senator La Follette? Well, didn't he make the most of it! And now the film is being exhibited everywhere—and "young Bob" gets the credit for having released it, after Paramount had professed to try to suppress it, as a possible incitement to disorder.

Classy advertising for "Young Bob" and Paramount, and maybe for labor!

MUFFED?

One cannot but wonder why the labor relations board muffed such an opportunity. One can't but surmise why Madden and the two Smiths did not recognize it.

One wonders also why Chairman Kenneth McKellar of the senate's post office committee did not insist on having the film initially exposed before HIS group. He was offered the first crack at it, but voluntarily turned it over to Senator La Follette. It was a remarkable example of political generosity or of poor advertising generalship, and Senator McKellar usually is pretty deft at publicity. I do not pretend to say how he overlooked this particular bet.

I do not accuse Paramount of poor advertising management, either. Paramount did, indeed, temporarily suppress its film, but it permitted the news to leak out that it HAD one, thus creating a lot of curiosity concerning it, and then, with ostensible reluctance, showing it.

C. I. O. BENEFITS

The C. I. O. benefited, too, by a brief suppression of the film.

The short delay concentrated attention upon it. When it finally was uncovered, it attracted all the more attention.

The only person I am inclined to criticize is the cameraman who took the picture. He has been praised for being at his post in a situation of danger. I do not question his nerve; I question his craftsmanship.

Just at the psychological moment, he delayed his film while changing his camera's lenses

In heaven's name, why hadn't he attended to his lenses in advance?

SAFETY SPECIAL IS COMING HERE

Truck-Trailer Highway Safety Demonstrators Here On July 15

A new type of traveling safety demonstration is now making its appearance on the nation's highways. This announcement was made today by McBride-Shannon Company, local representative of the Etna Casualty and Surety Company of Hartford, Conn., stating that their company is sponsoring the new mobilized unit, which is known as the Etna Safety Special. It will visit New Castle on July 15.

The equipment, according to McBride-Shannon Co., is a streamlined truck and trailer combination, attractively painted in silver and black. Recently it made its initial appearance in the heart of New York's famous Times Square, where it was the featured attraction of a safety clinic conducted by the New York Police Department. During its exhibit there the demonstration aroused much interest and thousands were afforded an opportunity to check up on their driving ability. On completion of its use in New York, the unit was launched on an extended tour of the country.

The trailer unit houses a battery of mechanical tests for determining such phases of driving ability as reaction time, steering, hand and eye coordination, susceptibility to headlight glare and color blindness. Additional features include sound pictures for showing to sidewalk audiences, photographic murals depicting highway and street hazards, and various traffic charts and other safety educational aids.

Quantities of literature of highway accident prevention will be distributed by the safety demonstration on its tour of the country.

Personnel in charge will work under the supervision of local highway, safety and police officials. Although it has been in operation for only a short time, the Safety Special has already attracted much favorable comment and is expected to provide a means of conducting traffic in smaller cities and towns.

President And Wife Review Big Scout Assemblage

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9—A broiling sun meant nothing to the better part of 26,000 boy scouts assembled here, as they stood in review on Constitution Avenue for the president and Mrs. Roosevelt Thursday.

The Jamboree scouts lined both sides of the avenue with their flags, pennants and banners, from the Capitol deep into Potomac Park.

It was touch and go with the boys whether to cheer, salute or take a picture as the presidential car rolled slowly by. The camera won in most instances, as nearly every scout appeared to be armed with one.

The boys gave the chief executive and Mrs. Roosevelt a rousing reception all along the route, at the start of which were massed the 400 scouts from 25 foreign nations. They dipped their flags as the president passed.

Would Cut Cost Of Propaganda

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Aroused by what he called the high cost of government propaganda, Chairman J. Walter Lambeth of the Joint Congressional Printing committee, Thursday started a determined campaign to cut the cost.

Lambeth, a soft-spoken North Carolinian, struck out especially against "bootleg printing"—his term for the practice of departments and agencies to get out propaganda and other material without complying with the printing rules.

Cost of free government mail Lambeth said, has risen from $10,701,912 in 1932 to $32,713,305 in 1936. Cost of government printing has risen during the same period from $14,333,330 to $18,756,208.

In defense of congress, Lambeth emphasized that the cost of franking congressional mail decreased from $1,019,000 in 1932 to $751,000 in 1936.

Correct This Sentence: "While I sit back and let others do all the work," said he, "I won't accuse them of trying to run things."

Fans May Get Another Chance

May Return All-Star Game Selections Back To Fans Of Country

TERRY-M'CARTHY GET "RAZZED"

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 9.—Provided Judge Landis can be persuaded to see it that way, baseball's annual all star game may go back to the fans next year, via national vote, as a means of evading criticism and censure, both on the field and off. This was revealed today by various officials, returning from the Washington extravaganza with a certain sense of misgiving—but strictly unwilling to air their views, except anonymously. The judge, you see, might misunderstand.

The judge, in fact, is the man who took the vote away from the fans after last year's game in Boston, his claim being that the balloting fell so far short of nation-wide scope that most of it was confined to two cities—Chicago and Boston. The former, it was said, returned 60 per cent of the total votes, the latter 50 per cent of what remained.

Selections Scored.

In other words, the fans didn't have the game at all, so the judge, deciding that nobody can lose what he hasn't got, gave it to the rival managers, the Messrs. McCarthy and Terry, to the latter's everlasting regret. He was criticized for his selection of the team before the game; he was ridiculed in the newspapers afterward.

Briefly, he "was on the spot", as one National leaguer put it today, and it is because they don't want this to happen again that quite some few baseball men are all too willing today to let the fans do the picking. In fact, they'd even go further and let the fans pick the rival managers, too.

Voting Contest.

There are only two things against this—and the other is Judge Landis, so perhaps the first one won't count. Anyhow, it calls for the lining up of a newspaper in each major league city to conduct voting contests, with prizes going to those whose selections more nearly parallel the ultimate 46 players named.

As for the judge, his stand is practically unassailable. Last year's game in Boston, with the fans voting, did not sell out. This year's game in Washintgon did. Maybe one can go behind that argument, but personally and with due consideration of the judge's strength of mind I think it might be simpler if one tried to go behind the nape of his neck.

Earle Baruch and Kean Donnelly stole the plaudits of the gallery in the opening day of the match play in the state amateur golf championship at Lancaster. The field of 64 narrowed to 16 after two rounds. Baruch beat Ken Stear of Punxsutawney 1 up in the first round by a sensational finish after being two down at the sixteenth, went on to eliminate the defending champion, Toby Lyons, of Cambridge Springs 2 and 1 in the second round. Donnelly beat two former national and state title-holders, Dave Herron of Pittsburgh and Max Marston of Philadelphia. Herron bowed 2 to 1 in the first round and Marston was overwhelmed 7 to 6 in the second round.

Gray Twombly, 15, of Winchester Mass., caught a fish of which he can be proud, according to reports from Hyannis, Mass. He pulled a 32 pound striped bass from Eastham Beach, said not only the largest reported this season but the earliest catch of bass ever made on the cape. It was 46 inches long and had a girth of 24 inches.

Henry Armstrong, the brown streak from the Pacific coast, knocked out Alf Blatch of Australia in the third round before 10,000 fans at Madison Square Garden, New York last night. Paul Junior, Lewiston, Me., lightweight, beat Eddie Zivic, Pittsburgh, in the semi-final of eight rounds.

The Game Commission at Harrisburg has named Ross L. Leffler of McKeesport as vice president and installed John H. Price of Scranton as a member of the commission. Nick Biddle of Philadelphia is chairman of the body succeeding John Q. Creveling of Wilkes-Barre. Price took Creveling's place on the board. The season on grouse and quail was established between November 1 and 13. Rabbits and squirrels may be hunted November 1 to November 25.

Joe Louis will defend his title against Tommy Farr of England at New York, August 26. The fight is scheduled for 15 rounds in the Yankee stadium. The fight was originally set for September 13 but the New York commission has approved the new date. Max Schmeling was offered the first chance against Louis but the fight could not be arranged. It will be Farr's first fight in the United States.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9—The winning of the Eastern intercollegiate league basketball championship the best football season in a decade the individual exploits of Gene Gisburne in swimming and the first undefeated boxing season, feature the annual report on athletics at the University of Pennsylvania.

During the academic year 1936-37 athletes wearing the red and blue participated in 119 varsity events of which 67 resulted in victories and 52 in defeats. The percentage of .563 is eleven points better than a year ago.

The basketball teams, in winning the league championship, did not lose a single contest of the 12 played with its principal rivals. In football Pennsylvania returned to its winning ways by defeating seven of its eight rivals. TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 9.—That wasn't a mistake . . . the name of Luke Sewell in the box score of the All-Star game as catcher for the American leaguers . . . it was old Luke all right . . . the mistake was all Alva Bradley's and Old Fox Clark Griffith's, two major league magnates who traded Luke Sewell away.

A great catcher's work isn't often appreciated unless he happens to be a .300 hitter along with it . . . but five years ago when Cleveland traded Sewell to Washington for Roy Spencer, the Indians slumped and Washington promptly went out and won a pennant. . . . Two years ago Griff sent Sewell to the Browns for Irving Hadley, and the Browns sold him to Chicago. . . . Mr. Griffith's ball club hasn't been hot since Luke left . . . and just look at those White Sox the last two years!

Managers selecting stars for one game like to pick up hitting power. . . . Sewell is not a slugger, though he is a timely and dangerous batter . . . but his lifetime average of .260 doesn't speak well for his ability at the plate . . . when Marse Joe chose Luke to catch, he paid a high tribute to his efficiency behind the bat . . . a catcher who can win recognition without clouting is a man among men.

Proves His Case

Luke has been in the big show for 17 years, and for 15 of those years has been a first string catcher . . . there is no better handler of pitchers in the business . . . with him behind the bat several castoffs from other American league teams have bloomed into stardom with the White Sox . . . notably Bill Dietrich, Sugar Cain and Lefty Lee . . . Dietrich was given a job by Jimmy Dykes when no one else wanted him . . . with Sewell catching Dietrich suddenly began winning games . . . and this year topped off his surprising performances with a no-hit game against the Browns.

Cain was virtually kicked off the Browns after being sent down the river by the Athletics . . . but pitching to Sewell in Chicago he found himself, and last year became a 15-game winner. . . . Lefty Lee? . . . so wild in a Cleveland uniform that the grandstand customers ducked when he wound up . . . but pitching to Sewell he has turned back the Yankees four times this year with low-hit victories, and has become one of Dykes' mound aces.

He Pegs 'Em Out

Last year many of the league's speedboys attempted to take liberties with Sewell's age and arm . . . the result was that he led the catchers in assists, and the base stealers have learned to respect the venerable Alabaman's whip.

Luke was a young catcher at the University of Alabama when his brother Joe, then shortstop for the Cleveland Indians, managed to sell the Indians the idea of giving him a tryout. . . . Luke was sent to Columbus for part of the season of 1921, recalled at the end of the season and has been a major leaguer ever since. . . . He has been married for 11 years, his wife, the former Edna Ridge, an Akron, O., girl. . . . Luke has two daughters, and says both are right-handed.

Louis-Schmeling Bout In Chicago Being Planned

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 9.—Promoter Joe Foley, who staged the recent Louis-Braddock world's championship fight here in partnership with Mike Jacobs, said today he had hopes that Joe Louis would defend his heavyweight title against Max Schmeling in Chicago late in September.

Foley said it was probable that Jacobs would stage the bout in Chicago, if Schmeling accepts terms, following Louis' defense of his crown against Tommy Farr of England in New York on August 26.

Blatch Kayoed In Third Round

Henry Armstrong, Coast Negro, Hands Lacing To Australian Lightweight Champ

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Henry Armstrong, California's black spider and claimant to the world featherweight championship, today was established among the lightweights, and Alf Blatch, the lightweight crown-wearer of Australia, was recuperating from the pounding he suffered until their bout at Madison Square Garden last night was stopped in the third round.

The little black man from the coast scored his third straight decisive triumph in the Garden ring and at no time, from the start until the bout was halted by the referee, was there any doubt as to the outcome, or even as to whether it would go the scheduled 10 rounds.

Blatch was all over the floor for 10 knockdowns. Some were questionable, but the first two, in the opening round, were cleanly executed through a combination of the bobypummeling, for which Armstrong is famous, and clean shots to the chin.

The Australian had every physical advantage, including poundage, which was 135½ to 132½.

In the crowd of 10,000 which saw the fight was Al Jolson, the Mammy singer, in a seat down close to the corner occupied by Armstrong whose contract he holds.

Great idea for a catchy new magazine ad: Show a picture of a pretty lady with all her clothes on.

Baseball Teams Back In Action

After Three Idle Days, Big League Teams Will Return To Wars Today

GIANTS WILL MEET DODGERS

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—After a three-day lull in pennant races while the annual all-star game was being dispensed with, National and American leaguers resumed the battle in their respective circuits today, with the Chicago Cubs embroiled in the feature series.

The National league leaders opened at Pittsburgh against the Pirates, who are still regarded by many as potential flag-winners. They are now in third place, 5½ games behind the Cubs and 3½ back of the runner-up Giants.

Dodgers Vs. Giants.

The latter picked up the battle over in Brooklyn and were assured of a hearty reception from the lowly Dodgers and their loyal cohorts—still smarting over Manager Bill Terry's failure to name the aging but robust Heinie Manush to his all-star team.

The St. Louis Cardinals, bringing up the rear of the first division, a half game behind the Pirates and therefore six out of the lead, entertaining the cellar-dwelling Cincinnati Reds, while the Philadelphia Phillies opened at Boston.

No immediate threat to the Yankees 5½ game league over the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers in the American league was foreseen for the immediate future.

Yanks Vs. Senators.

The Yankees tangled up with the Washington Senators here at home and figured to do better than all right, while the Tigers will be entertaining the powerful Cleveland Indians and the White Sox will be at home to the perennial slumps—the St. Louis Browns.

The Boston Red Sox meanwhile will be making a bid for a better position than the fourth place spot they now hold. They figure to at least hold what they've got, inasmuch as the Philadelphia Athletics will furnish the opposition.

Revised Game Code Clears Dissension

Propagating License Law Issue Among Sportsmen Cleared Up

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 9—Pennsylvania's revised game code has cleared up much of the dissension among sportsmen over the propagating license law, it appeared today.

Some sportsmen argued "moneyed clubs" could operate on a large scale having plenty of birds to shoot as they pleased, foes of this argument contended that surrounding countryside benefitted by some of the game escaping and being made available to the public.

The big majority, however, was of the opinion that the state game commission, did not keep close enough tab on the situation and argued that a very definite distinction should be made between the fellow who wanted to propagate for sport, or shooting.

The law requires operators of such grounds to pay $25 for the first 100 acres and $5 additional for each 100 acres or fraction thereof. They must also make available for public hunting acreage equal to one-half that used for propagation, except where 25 per cent of the propagated or purchased pheasants, chukar partridges, or mallard or black ducks is turned over to the state for stocking elsewhere.

Members of organizations conducting the plots may not shoot the birds until opening of the small game season and not after December 31 and must have a license, either resident or non-resident, as the case may be.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Promoter Mike Jacobs today planned to send Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis to England in September for a bout with Len Harvy or Jack Doyle.

The way for the Brown Bomber's European trip was paved when the New York state boxing commission approved switching of the date of his bout with Tommy Farr, English champion, in Yankee stadium here from Sept. 13 to Aug. 26. This will permit Louis to reach England in time for an outdoor bout.

The Louis-Farr bout will be staged under joint auspices of Jacobs and the free milk fund for babies, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman. Jacobs' all-star extravaganza featuring four champions was postponed until Sept. 15.

City May Get Fire Alarms System Soon

Authorize Borough Clerk To Advertise For Bids For New Equipment

CONSIDER RADIO SYSTEM FOR POLICE

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—Ellwood City is very likely to get an efficient fire alarm system in the near future, judging from the attention given the matter by the borough council at their regular meeting Thursday night in the new municipal building.

Councilman William McGlincy suggested a special box for the hospital and every year install an additional one in the local schools. Councilman P. R. Fike poihted out that if a radio system is installed for the police department as now contemplated, the present Gamewell police system could be used for the fire alarms.

Upon recommendation of William McGlincy, the rules and regulations committee was delegated to investigate the advisability of having a public stenographer in the city building.

The bids are to be returned in ten days. The time for the bids on the construction of a roof over the curb market was extended one week by a motion of council.

Definite action was taken by council to repair bad streets, since the new city building is now done. It was voted to have the city solicitor write the property owners on Cedar street to build a sidewalk there.

Considerable discussion was held on the acute parking situation here. It resulted with the police committee and burgess being authorized to look into the acquiring of the three lots on Lawrence avenue across from the Manos Theatre for parking purposes and also additional space at the east end of Lawrence avenue, where there is a spacious lot near the Wayne Lumber Company. They will report back to council.

Three Hundred At Picnic Of Baptists

Great Time For First Baptist Crowd At Cascade Park On Thursday

Three hundred men, women and children attended the annual First Baptist picnic at Cascade Park on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Although the weather was sweltering the Park grove was about the best place anyone could be; the grove and the swimming pool, that is, and there was a goodly number in each. Although the sports and contests were not strenuous and didn't include the usual mushball game, they were exciting and many prizes were distributed to the victors. Then D. S. Williams also saw that there were plenty of free lollypops and candy for the youngsters. Everyone had a good time.

The basket dinner was enjoyed at abtut 6:30 p. m.

Earl Reeble from Florida was one of the guests. Awards were given to the oldest man present, A. I. Broadhead, the oldest woman, Miss Orpha Clark, and the youngest man, little Paul Fombelle, Jr. The Ransom family was the largest. Many other prizes were given.

D. S. Williams, in charge of "fun-for-all" Manning Weller, in charge of sports, and the Gleaners class, headed by Mrs. Earl Russell, in charge of tables, deserve much praise for their work.

Recluse Admits Tavern Shooting

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 9. — A 62-year-old recluse, Charles Ceccato, has admitted staging the shooting orgy in a beer tavern near Burgettstown early today which left one man dead, and another wounded because they had twitted him about his nationality, according to authorities.

Charges of murder, felonious assault and violation of the firearms act were filed against Ceccato, who speakes six languages. He was held in the Washington county jail here after being captured at his one-room shack at Bavington, near Burgettstown.

Green Says Lewis' Move Is Failure

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Through its president, William Green, the American Federation of Labor today pronounced the latest move of John L. Lewis and his CIO a failure.

The present impasse in the steel industry, wherein the independent companies have defied every effort of Lewis to bargain with them collectively to the extent of both sides signing a written contract, was today written by Green as a defeat.

Unionism Hurt

Green said this defeat has dealt a crushing blow to the cause of true unionism in America, adding:

"No hostile employer in America has done the cause of organized labor more harm than those who formulated, executed and administered the policies of the committee for industrial organization during the past eight months.

"The violation of agreements, the seizure of public property, violence, riots and uprisings can have no place in the social economic and industrial life of America. No union of workers who resort to the use of such methods can succeed . . . workers of the United States understand this to be true. They are willing to strike and fight for higher wages and improved conditions of employment, but they will do so as law-abiding people through the exercise of every moral, legal and economic right to which they are entitled, in an orderly way and in conformity with the laws of the land."

He said the CIO steel workers "were persuaded to sacrifice themselves as victims of ill-advised and untimely strikes; resentment and disappointment among the workers is bound to follow."

KISSES WAITRESS, TOO?

"What's the matter?"

"Oh, my husband is so absent-minded. After breakfast he left a tip on the table, and when I handed him his hat he gave me another tip."

"Well, that's nothing to worry about. Just force of habit."

"That's what worries me. He kissed me when I gave him his umbrella."

Stock Market Is Irregular

Rails And Steels Lead In Slight Decline In Market Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—The stock market was dull and irregular today. Motors, rails and steels led an initial decline, but the latter group, along with farm implements, staged a rally mid-way through the first hour. This cut down losses and brought a considerable number of plus signs through the general list.

Grains and cotton improved. Bonds were mixed and quiet, governments pointing irregular higher.

In the stock market, fluctuations in steel shares typified the general list. U. S. Steel opened ⅞ lower at 108⅝, slipped farther to 108⅜, then moved up to its previous close of 109½. Bethlehem wiped out most of a ¾-point drop.

Farm implements were the outstanding stocks through the forenoon. Oliver Farm set the upward pace on a jump of better than two points, while International Harvester and Deere each climbed close to a point.

Motors were backward, although reducing initial losses. Both Chrysler and General Motors held fractionally under last night's final quotations.

Rubbers, oils and utilities were mixed. Rails were mostly lower, Chesapeake & Ohio featuring on a drop of two points. Atchison bucked the trend to chalk up a large fractional gain.

Libby-Owens-Ford and U. S. Smelting each spurted a point, as did U. S. Gypsum, Philip Morris in the tobaccos lost a point.

Italian Casuals Return to Naples From Spain
